PHASD Superintendent

Dr. Robert W. Coulter is Superintendent of the Port Huron Area School District. This year he is completing his second year in this position.

As a graduate of Port Huron Junior College, Dr. Coulter continued his education at Wayne State University. There he earned the B.S. and M.A. degrees. He successfully completed his work for his doctorate in June of 1972.

In 1961 Dr. Coulter joined the PHASD as Director of Secondary Education. He has held the office of Assistant Superintendent for Instruction and Administration of the PHASD since 1965.

Formerly, he served as a counselor and teacher in the local schools, and as Superintendent of the Township School District.

Presently, Dr. Coulter is a member of a number of professional organizations and service groups. The Rotary Club and the YMCA are two groups in which he is active and interested. The professional organizations of which he is a member are the Michigan Association of School Administrators, American Association of School Administrators, the NEA, MEA, and Michigan Association of School Administrators Council.

Dr. Coulter has continually expressed the opinion that the successful operation of the school district and the achievement of its educational objectives is the responsibility of everyone involved.

Dr. Coulter's son, David, and daughter, Christine, are both graduates of Central Michigan University. David is a YMCA physical education director and Christine is certified to teach elementary education.

Board of Education Serves Community Faithfully

*Mr. A.B. Carlisle
President*

One of the most difficult positions of civic involvement is that of the member of a board of education. Members are called upon to recognize the opinions of the community on educational objectives and operate the school district accordingly. In a time when everyone is interested in "doing his own thing" opinions are either non-existent or difficult to perceive. The result is that these unpaid volunteers are frequently subjected to undeserved and bitter crossfire from various segments of the community. In addition to the above, they are called upon to meet community educational objectives which frequently are not supported by adequate community funds.

The board serves as the policy-making body for the district. The actual operation is conducted by the staff within the policies established by the board. In addition, the board must approve all hiring and release of personnel. Finally, they must approve the district budget and approve the bills to cover supplies or services purchased.

The board has many objectives that it is striving to accomplish during 1972-1973. They are working toward the improvement of accountability, communications, learning, and planning throughout the school district.

As principal of Northern since its opening in 1965, Mr. James Overly feels this year is one of the best Northern has ever experienced. "Better attitudes and better understanding on the part of the students have made this year very enjoyable for all," stated Mr. Overly.

One of the things that may have helped make this such a good year is the dedicated and sincere interest Mr. Overly takes in his job. Mr. Overly constantly strives to make Northern more beneficial and enjoyable for all students.

Mr. Overly holds a great responsibility for the activities around Northern. Only a few of his duties are: supervising budgeting, coordinating the curriculum, and interviewing teachers. Working with the department heads, Mr. Overly is able to keep in close touch with the progress and problems of each department.

Mr. Overly, a graduate of Michigan State University, served as assistant principal at Port Huron High School before coming to Northern. He also worked in Grass Lake, Michigan where he was a teacher and principal for ten years.

Assistant Principal

As Assistant Principal, Mr. Raymond Morehead has a lot to do with what goes on around Port Huron Northern. Among his many responsibilities is that of regulating Northern's activity calendar. In this calendar all school activities and community affairs must be included. Mr. Morehead also directs the scheduling of students for classes. Weekly, Mr. Morehead meets with deans from each grade to discuss any problems that may arise.

Serving as Mr. Morehead's secretary is Mrs. Velma Shepherd. Along with her duties of secretary, she is also the Accounting Clerk and supervisor of girls who work in the main office on the switchboard and in the duplicating room.

Mr. Morehead is extremely pleased with the way things are running this year. He stated that everything is running very smoothly. He feels this may be the best year for Northern since its opening in 1965.

Cook and Custodians — The Helping Hands

Preparing lunches for Northern's students and faculty is an unending task. The job of serving lunches for Northern students, along with students from nine other schools, begins at 6 a.m. each day and is not finished until 2 p.m. Mrs. Mildred Green, head cook, and a well-qualified staff of seventeen women take on this responsibility. Daily they prepare nourishing lunches for all to enjoy. A wide variety of food is available to satisfy almost any appetite. Much appreciation and thanks should be extended to these women.

Keeping the school building and grounds looking attractive requires a lot of work. Head custodian, Mr. Robert Barr, leads the maintenance team in this task. They are kept busy throughout the school year as well as during the summer months. The custodians work long hours during the day and night to keep the school clean for all. Whether it be mowing the lawn, fixing someone's locker, or just picking up after kids, they always manage a friendly smile.

Academics

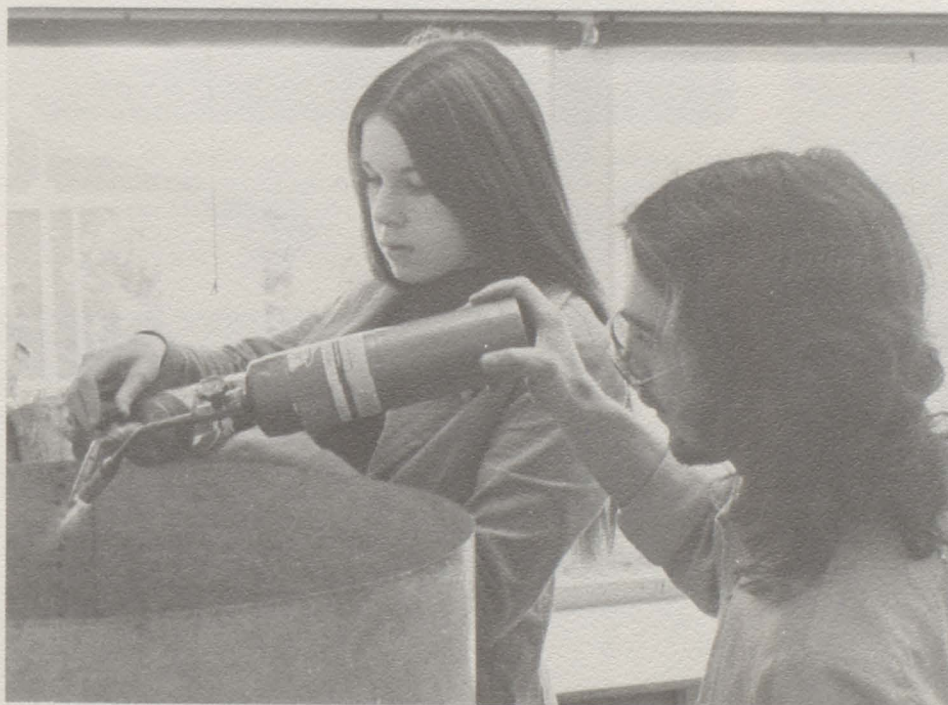

Hands and minds struggling to comprehend all areas of academic studies. Each day students learn more and more, only to realize how much more there is to learn. They find out that our accumulation of knowledge will never end.

At Northern the search for knowledge is made interesting and challenging by the varied curriculum that is offered. A student has the opportunity to select classes that appeal to him. Experienced counselors and deans are on hand to help students make these selections. They are able to recommend classes they feel will be most rewarding to that particular student.

Northern's well-qualified faculty help students fulfill their search for knowledge. Teachers constantly strive to make classes interesting and challenging to the abilities of all students. They encourage students to question what they don't understand and try to discover answers.

Although a student's knowledge covers a wide area by the time he completes his high school years, he realizes that education will not stop here. His life will be filled with many more learning experiences but with what he has gained here he is prepared to face the future.

Exercises to limber up stiff muscles always begin each day's class. Sit ups are just one of the ways of serving that purpose.

Sixth hour can be an enjoyable hour in the boys' gym class; even the exercises.

Physical Education: An Outlet of Energy

The teaching staff at Northern has made this year's physical education department a well-rounded program. There is a class to suit each person's taste.

The girls' advanced physical education course is equipped with facilities and personnel to offer instruction in team and individual activities. This reinforces any past experiences and provides for the learning of new skills and methods. Some activities include: bowling, badminton, fencing, softball, track and field, tennis, golf, archery, and if weather permits, a sauna unit to complete the course. The students have a chance to increase their strength, better motor skills, and improve health practices.

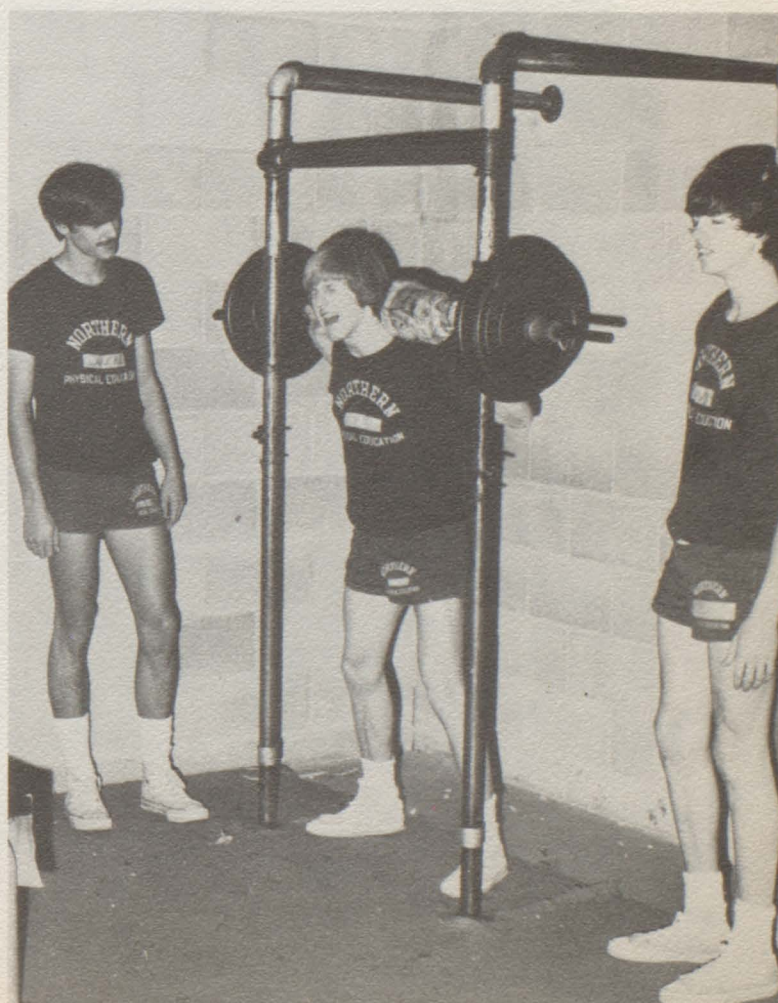

The boys' physical education hopes to teach and introduce the skills of carry-over activities for the use of leisure time in adult life, to build confidence in match skills, to teach the value of physical activity in one's daily life, and to make physical activities enjoyable. Among the activities in the advanced division are: soccer, speedball, volleyball, weights, ping-pong, and parallel bars.

In today's society physical activity is an important individual effort for health. The chances of an individual's participating as an adult are much greater if he has confidence and basic skills. Enjoyable physical education will release tension; which is important in today's society.

Beginning Homemakers Apply Newly Acquired

Mrs. Brown gives Karen Reiche, Gay Henry, Bob Bailey, and Deanna Tice helpful hints as they upholster some empty cable spools. Projects like this keep them busy in their Home and Family Living class.

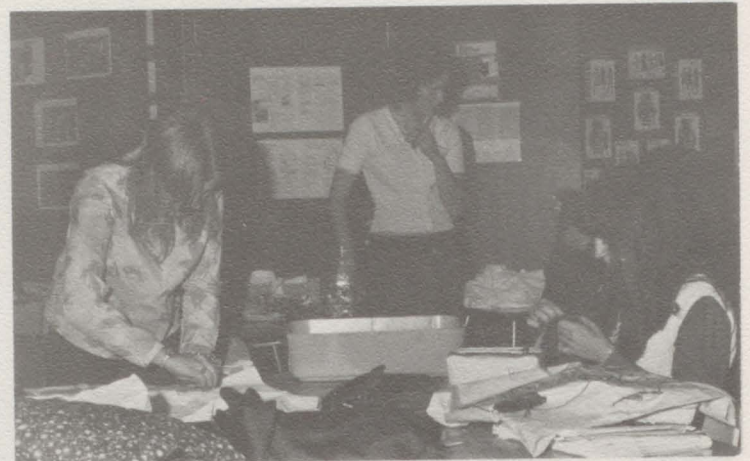

Debbie Rush takes a moment to smile for the photographers with her creative needlework project. Debbie is in Miss Galoit's 6th hour class.

Home Economics has nine different courses this year. In Basic Foods nutritional background, table setting, and meal planning come before cooking vegetables, meats and dairy products. Tender cakes and steaming hot cookies emerge from the oven in baking class. Special gourmet dishes from all over the world give Foreign Foods an International flare.

Home and Family Living covers engagement, marriage, and family problems. Child Development spends the entire semester on environmental care of the child, from before birth of the twelve year old child.

Home Economics is a yearly course for ninth graders only. First semester covers grooming, clothing, and home environment. Second semester is spent in foods and child relations. Creative needlework explodes into a world of macrame, hooked rugs, and applique. Basic Clothing provides fundamentals for constructing dresses, stylish pants, and assorted tops. Special Fabrics is concerned with "Will this fabric get that second glance?"

June Richards and Sue Borovich learn how to entertain and keep little Jeffy Mugidge and Lisa Borovich busy in their Child Development class.

"It just doesn't measure up" seems to be what is going through Nancy Chisholm (left) and Debbie Hayman's (right) minds. In the back at the sewing machine is Janet Williams.

Diane Langolf and Colleen Deacon's creativity led them to make a 'Cookie House' in Mrs. Carlson's fifth hour baking class.

Arts Encourage Creativity and Appreciation

Vicky Cedervall and Kevin Setter are soldering silver in their fourth hour Metal Design class.

Kim Morrison is shown taking measurements for a mat to frame the picture she drew. She is in Mr. Taggart's fifth hour drawing and painting class.

The students artistic talent is engulfed in the depths of self-expression using practically every conceivable form of mass media. Art 1's supplies and creativity are limitless, paints, yarn, collages, and linoleum imprints.

Masses of gray and red clay are plopped onto a potter's wheel to form large pots and medium sized pitchers. When glazed and fired, the final product is not drab, but instead it shows individualistic character. A pot may have an absurd face imprinted on one side or a pitcher may have five spouts.

In Drawing and Painting, landscape and volunteer models are captured by colored brushes and Indian ink pens swirling onto many forms of textured paper.

Commercial Design went far with the field of fashion illustration, and conquered precise movements needed for the many forms of lettering. The students were also taught how to make personal and imaginative Christmas cards. Hands in Textile Design made the colorful dyes and melted wax form into luminous circles on shirts, pillows, T-shirts and even socks. With a fiery glow of seated metals and constant pounding of shineless copper all go to make the beautiful products turned out by Metal Design. Bracelets, rings, necklaces; real craftsmen's handiwork.

Jane Metzker, Jane Smiley, and Beth Corbin show some of their accomplishments in Mrs. Labeau's textile class third hour. Other students can be seen working in the background. Beth's project is working with batik dyeing, while Jane Smiley does embroidery and Jane Metzker does tie - dyeing.

Eddie Ray, Tom Dewitt, Chris Dorman, Fritz Morrison, and John Rich make linoleum prints in sixth hour Art 1 class.

Marylou Witske (standing, center) and Pamela Hart (left), are just two of the students in Mr. Taggart's ceramics class who are working their clay.

Ken Christler is working his clay on the pottery wheel. A lot of patience is needed to make it very smooth, and there's no doubt in Ken's mind how well it will look.

Elizabeth Bajis, Tom Molinaro, Brian Barns, and Shela Black all have something in common - creativity. Whether it's sketching, coloring or making a stencil as Elizabeth is doing, they all do it the way they imagine it themselves.

Teachers in the Fine Art department, Mrs. Julie Labeau and Mr. Steve Taggart, encourage students to express creativity.

Acappella Choir Membership

Acappella Choir sings at one of the school assemblies. During the year, the choir will make a number of appearances at assemblies, church services, concerts, Christmas programs, and vocal contests. They wing in a number of cities during an out-of-state tour in May. There are ninety-one members of the Acappella choir.

Craig Dieterich encourages students to use the best of their abilities. "It's not what you can't do; it's what you won't let yourselves do".

This year's devoted choir officers are: Kerry White, secretary; Carol Joerger, treasurer; Robert Harrison, vice-president; Carol Snowden, librarian; Terry Cogley, President. These officers along with various committees make many decisions for the choir.

Sound Quality Is Better Than Ever

Hello! I'm Tina. I'm a little mouse that lives in a little corner in the back of the music room. No one has a better idea of what vocal music is all about than I do.

The ninth grade chorus, for those just entering high school, learn the fundamentals for reading notes and some pointers on getting good vocal quality.

The class that I really enjoy is second hour Chorale. They have such fine voices. They are advanced singers and are constantly singing at luncheons and Rotary Club meetings throughout the year.

The largest of the classes is Acappella Choir. The students in Acappella are those who want to continue their music learning.

If Acappella choir and Chorale aren't selling candy to raise money for a sound system or for extra money, they'll either be having final rehearsals to cut a record or making plans for an out-of-state-tour.

For the non-performers there is a music appreciation class held sixth hour. The students become acquainted with all the different catagories of music from Bach to rock.

Music is a great outlet for the students. Take it from me. I hear them every day.

Bonnie Robbins on piano and Dee Stevens on bass are big assets to the choir as they accompany them in a school assembly.

This year's ninth grade chorus will be taught the fundamentals for note reading and good vocal quality. The class meets during third hour.

Chorale sings at a WPHM luncheon at Traveler's Inn. Members of the chorale are: Mark Tisdell, Valerie Millar, Jean Scott, Laurel MacLean, Robert Harrison, Margaret Barns, Kim Williams, Dave Hebner, Jane Aldrich, Robert Banka, Jeff Turk, David Oppliger, Terrance Cogley.

Not visible are: Storm Hise, Darlene Megerle, Pam Pickard, Dennis Smith, Sandy Smith, and John Wolfe. Bonnie Robbins on the electric piano, Jeff Turk and Dee Stevens on bass, Debbie Cichoracki on drums, and Mark Tisdell on the tamborine.

Percussion Classes Added To Band Curriculum

Music ! Music ! Music !

It is probably one of the most popular and relaxing entertainments in today's world. For the students the Band Department has many interesting and exciting areas in which they can develop an understanding of music and playing skills to their full potential.

There are the Blue and Gold Bands which serve as training groups, the Concert Band for those who would like to make music a career, and the Marching Band for those who like playing for school activities. The Northern Lights Stage Band is offered for those interested in the popular music field.

New this year in the curriculum is a percussion class. The class was added because it was felt that the junior high schools do not fully prepare the student for high school band classes. By taking this class they can learn the things that were neglected so that they will be able to play at the same rate as the rest of the band. Among some of the instruments taught are: base drums, snare drums, xylophone, and bells.

The Concert Band goes through a lot of mistakes and hard work before perfecting their music. The brass section is practicing just one of the many compositions that they will practice during the year. After all the work they can be very proud of their accomplishments.

Louie Gunn has what it takes to get sound out of this big horn. He plays sousaphone in the blue band.

Even the best of players need a minute or two to catch their breath. The gold band takes out a moment to study their music.

Mr. Wade gives the Marching Band last minute instructions before the parade starts.

There is a lot of work in playing and trying to keep in step at the same time. Teamwork is a must. Practice pays off as the Marching Band represents Northern in the Veteran's Day parade in downtown Port Huron.

Tolerance is just one of the many attributes that Mr. Wade has to make the Band Department as fine as it is.

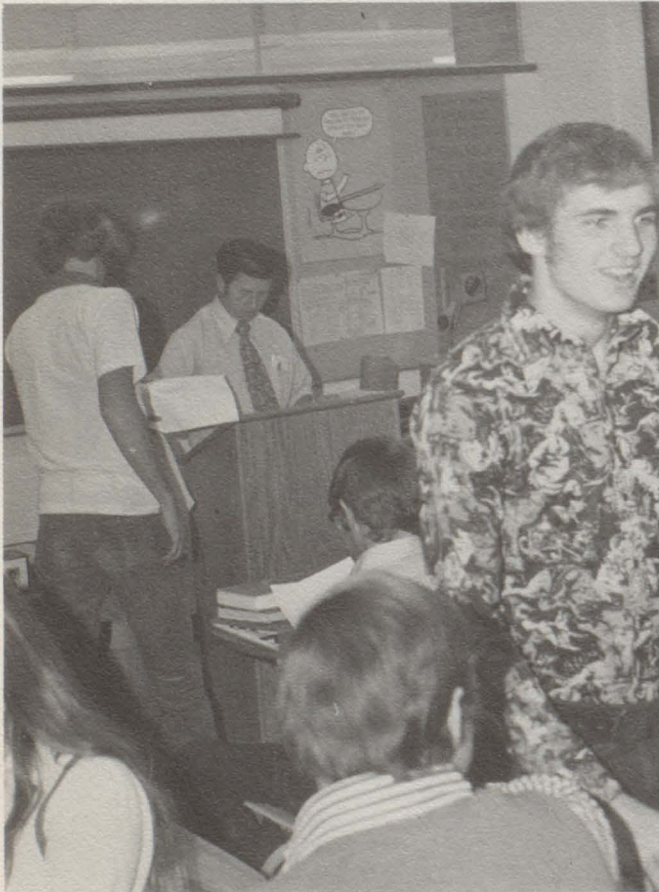

This year's Marching Band Drum Major in action is Senior David Rambaum.

Mathematics Still Using

Jamie Fenner and John Popham work with the angle measurements of two rays in their fourth hour Trigonometry class. Through the ratios of sides of a right triangle they can find unknown sides or angles of any triangle.

Gary Oden sure has something to smile about. He passed another of Mr. Dineen's calculus tests. That's really a relief.

Mathematics, to Carl Sandburg, "Is where numbers fly in and out of your head". At Northern, because of the many different courses, mathematics can't be summed up as easily.

For students who have difficulty in math, a Practical Math class is offered to teach the basic skills of arithmetic. The department offers Algebra and Geometry courses on three different levels so that the student may work according to his ability. A Trigonometry class focuses on triangles and the ratio of the sides of a triangle.

Previous changes have added Logic and Consumer's Math. The Logic class is just that: it trains the student to think in logical terms. Those in Consumer's math are taught how to get the most out of their money. Budgeting is one of the concepts of the class.

No matter what the class, it can always be said that mathematics is when the answer is right and everything is nice you can look out the window - or when the answer is wrong and you have to start all over and try again and see how it comes out this time.

Pam Pickard and Ron Charles use their mathematical knowledge to fill in a Truth Table in Mr. Blynn's Geometry class.

Reasoning, Logic

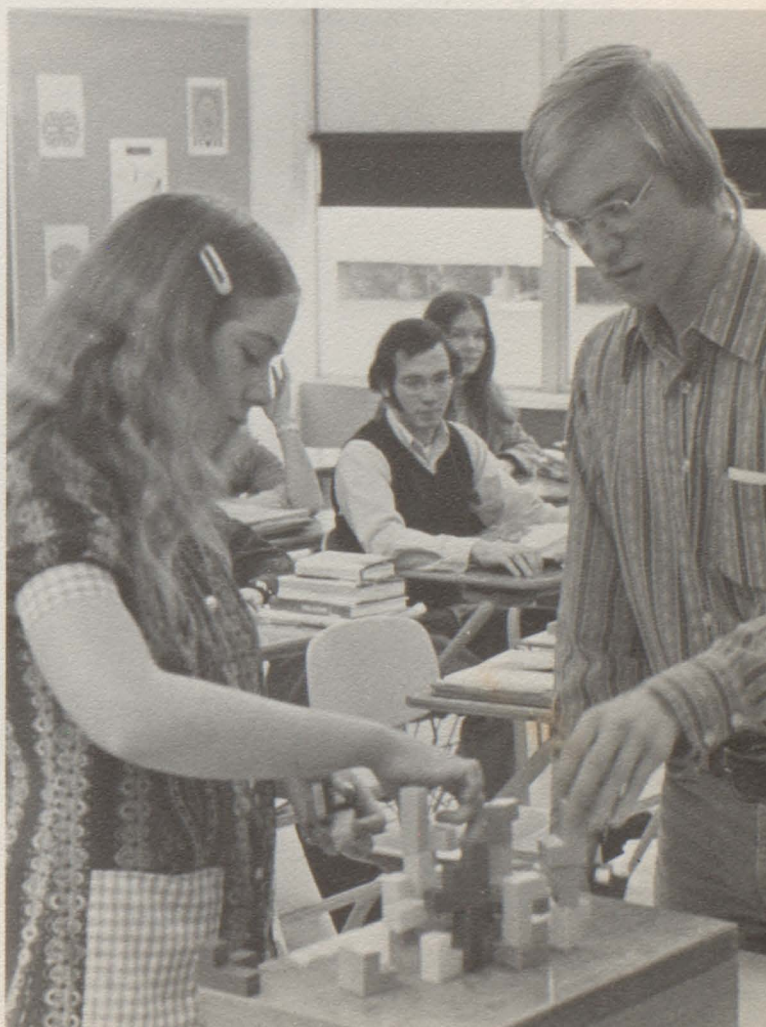

Back to back in Alegbra class, Kathy Buckoski constructs a geometric figure so that Scott MacTaggart can duplicate it according to Kathy's description of its algebraic make-up.

Mr. O'Bryant watches over Dave O'Donnell and Maurice Roe as they do some simple addition, subtraction, multiplication and division problems on the calculating machines in their Practical Math class.

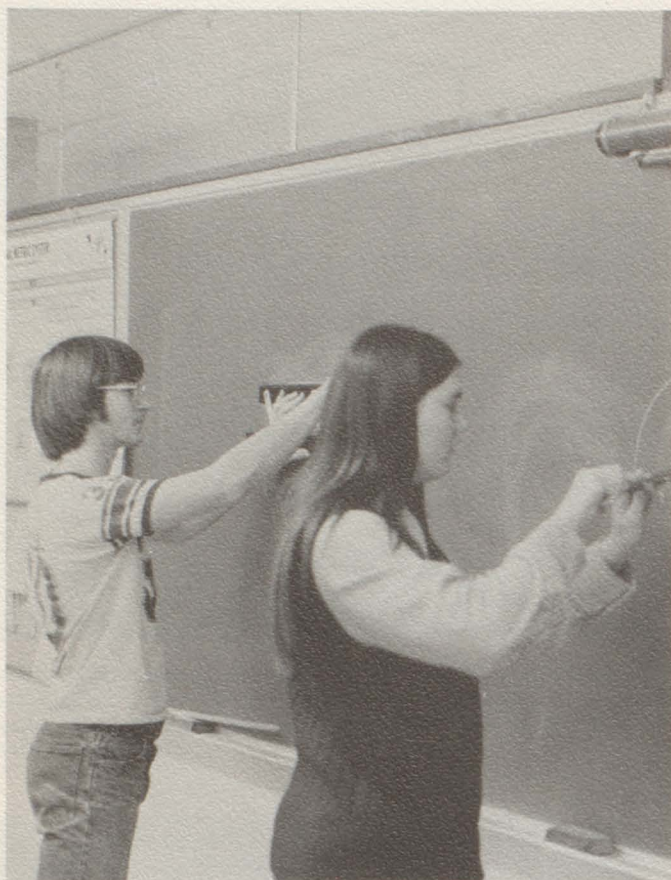

Even General Math requires a lot of board work. Here some of Mrs. Mosier's third hour students are putting their problems on the board so that fellow students can check their work.

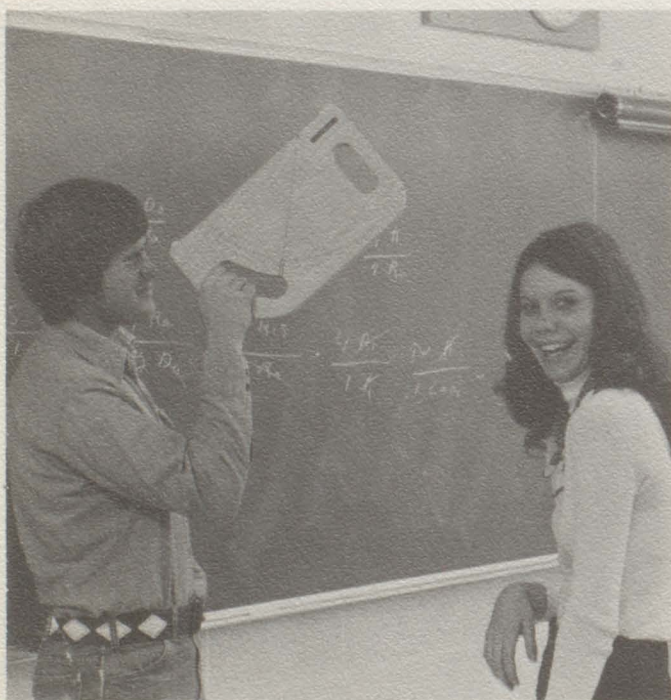

Greg Thomson and Judy Casa find out that two heads can be better than one in Mr. Fochtman's Logic Class first hour; especially that early in the morning.

Increasing Demand for Mathematical Skills

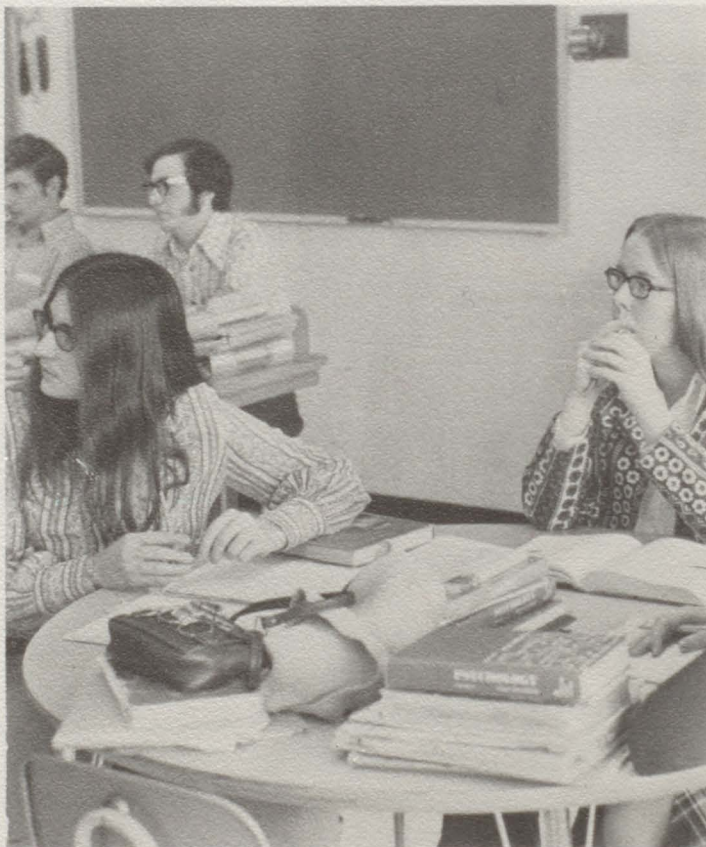

Steve Boden and Theresa Gardocki use rulers and compasses to draw figures for class work in their Geometry class.

Stanley Pearson and Wendy Wirtz discover a new math tool which will be useful in helping to work their Trigonometry problems.

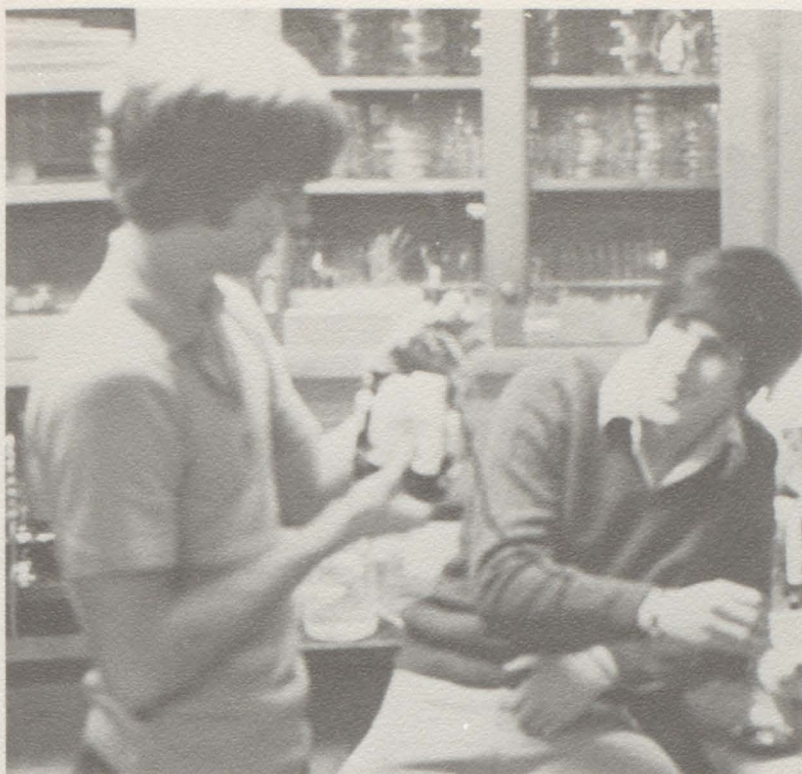

This year's finalists in the Michigan Math Test are: (seated) Craig Ludwig, John Seim, Tom Leveille; (standing) Tom Staiger, Mike Holth, and James Nyeste. Tom Staiger placed in the top one-hundred in semi-finals.

It takes a lot of listening from Miss Neil's Consumer's Math students to make sure they understand the budget concepts.

Health Science Course Added to Curriculum

Mark Bottrell and Pete Drescher force generated carbon dioxide into human blood hoping the cells will absorb it and turn blue in color.

What do you think of when somebody mentions science? H_2SO_4 ? Skeletons? Einstein? Anatomy? Rocks? Plants? Those students in Northern's science classes all have their own ideas.

In Chemistry the student becomes Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde as he mixes chemicals, and reactions occur. Through labs the student discovers what type of reaction to expect - sometimes the hard way - when two or more elements or compounds are combined. For example, when sodium is added to water it fizzes and burns.

The biology student's curiosity is aroused with Darwin's Theory of Evolution and man's heredity. For the advanced biology student preparing for college, a course acquaints the student with technical explanations of biology.

New this year in the curriculum is a Health Science course. This class deals with the many body functions. It is open to all students and is taught by Mr. Hanton.

Changes in personnel have resulted in Mr. Hanton's filling in for Mr. Spraggs, and Mr. Morrison taking the place of Mr. Gehman.

Why not decide what area appeals to you, try it on for size, and make your own conclusion as to what science is for you? It could be the most interesting class of the year.

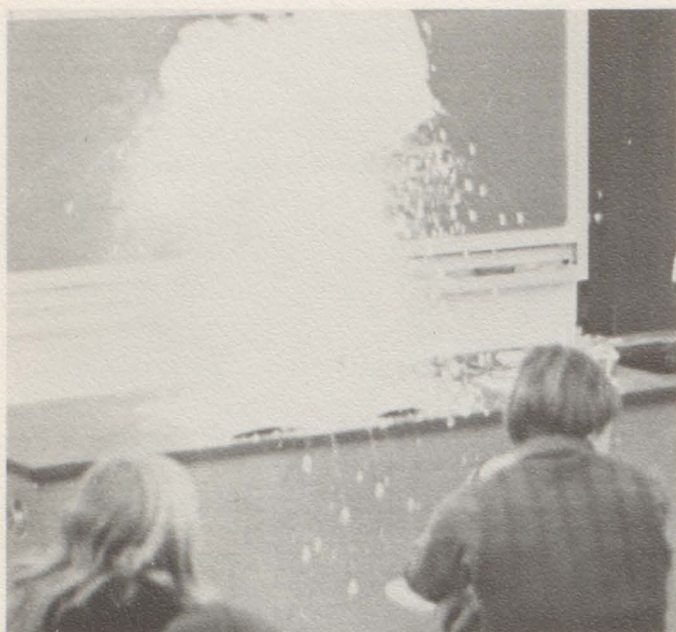

Mr. Morrison's General Science class learns a few secrets in knot-tying, second hour.

Sandy Brooks, Larry Kincaid, and Denise Bringard show an interest in planes in Mr. Lyszak's first hour Aerospace class.

Labratories and Research Broaden

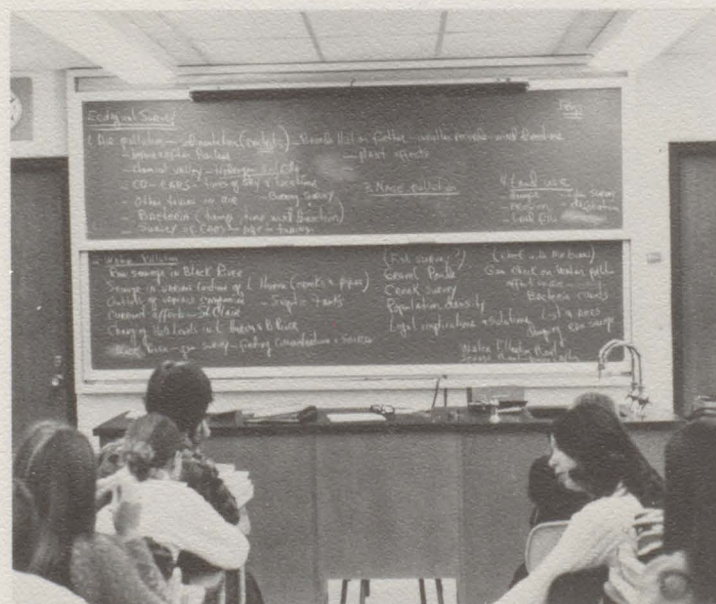

Mr. Heidemann brings the Great Pumpkin's message to his sincere chemistry students.

Biology lab work required outside information as well as microscope research.

Janet Staiger, Michele MacReady, and Harriet Wak work with Mr. Heidemann to collected gases as they produce them.

First and third hour Advance Placement Biology students brainstorm ideas for a large science project. The topic is concerned with ecology. They will work together in small groups, each assigned to a certain area.

Students' Knowledge of Science

Science Department teachers: (seated) Mr. Howard Heidemann, Miss Iris Nelson, Mr. Walter Lyszak; (standing) Mr. William Morrison, Mr. Daniel Hanton, Mr. Thomas Blackney, Mr. Richard Gonnering, and Mr. Harry Miller.

Ted Barss finds that demonstrating the electrostatic generator can be amusing.

Mr. Blackney's students measure chemicals for a lab in his Physical Science class. Labs increase knowledge through experimentation.

To Read Is To Understand

Eddie Thayer is really enthusiastic with reading his magazine in the library.

Here to serve us with a smile are Mrs. Gwendolyn Jones, Mrs. Marsha Wypych and Mrs. Barbara Wismer.

Top Row: James Kemp, Thersa Potter, Marie Kosel, Mary Schoneman, Heniretta Brooks, Ronald Bailey, Ronald Derocher, Ben Bailey, Alan Kibbe, Dee Stevens, Bruce Hurd, Terri Bland. Row 2: Peggy Nutt, Candace Putze, Jill Eagling, Pam Wolford, Christal Armstrong, Melody

Miss Fisher proudly displays the books in her Reading Center.

Sh! is a familiar sound when you're in the library. But when it comes to doing research, or reading your favorite book, the library is the best place to be.

Miss Fisher's Reading Center is for freshmen who volunteer for reading classes, or for any student who feels that he has reading problems. The Reading Center uses reading machines to help the students develop better reading habits so that the student will like to read.

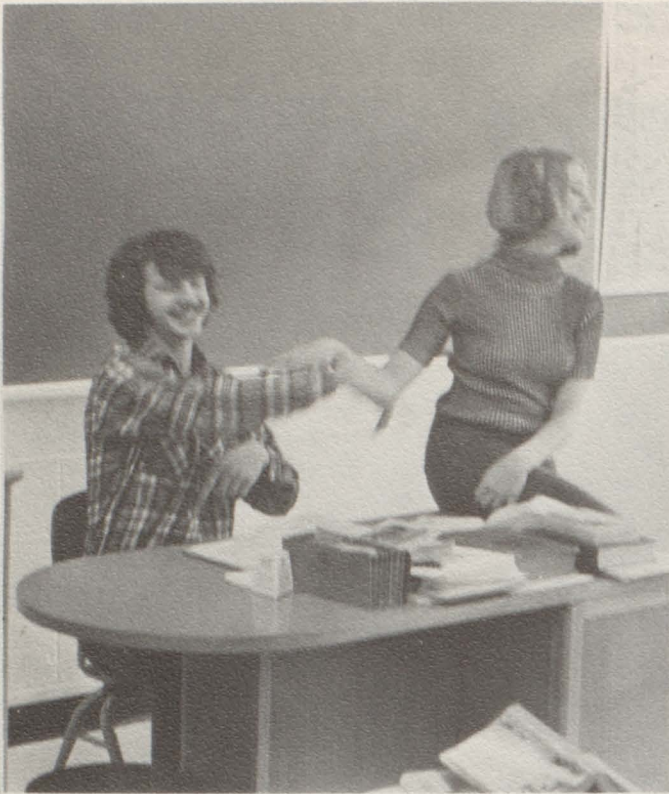

Port Huron Northern was given the LUDINGTON READING ROOM, in October. The $20,000 invested in paper-back books was generously donated by Mr. Ivan Ludington to help the students to get interested in reading. On the average, teachers take thirty classes to the Reading Room a week. Mothers volunteer time in the book-room to keep the books in order.

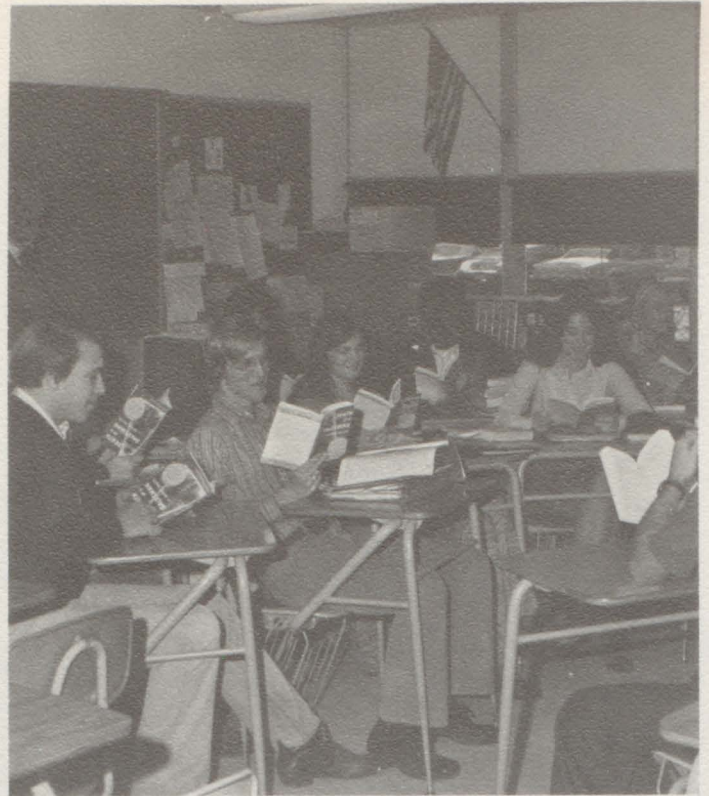

When you are reading together, it makes life a little better.

Cathy Brown says, "Where should I begin to start looking!"

Steve Bonney and Linda Tracy reenact Romeo and Juliet in Mr. Duncan's AP English class, third hour.

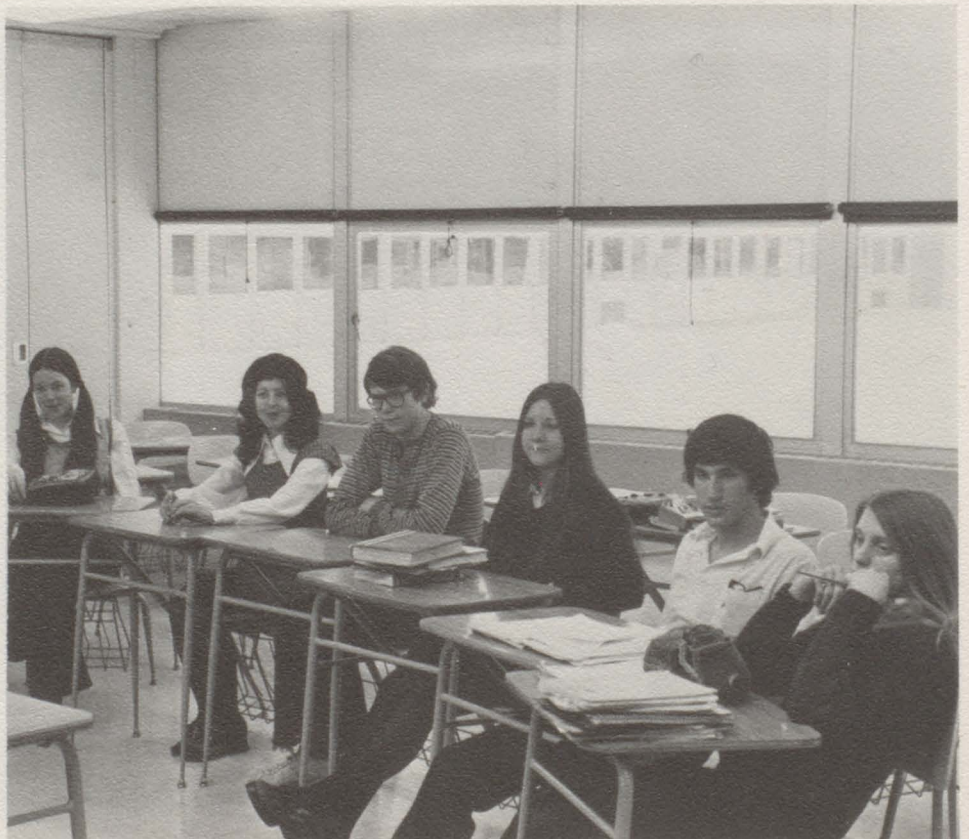

Contemporary American Literature students enjoy reading books such as "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller.

Students Awaken to Writings of Great Authors

Literature is written evidence of man's progress through the centuries. Northern's English department reflects the whole spectrum of literature beginning with Greek and British through American Literature. These courses let a student explore to his heart's content.

Literature is writing, writings make books, and reading translates man's ambitions from those books to the reader's mind. Chaucer and Shakespeare add touches of Romantic and Victorian styles that have blended into American writings and culture. American heritage begins with Columbus' writings, while Thomas Paine and Ben Franklin update man in the early days of a nation. Authors like Hemingway and Steinbeck reflect modern trends and attitudes.

The selection of courses allows the student a choice of areas in which to explore man and his literary progress.

Maggy Fitzgerald, Miss Faba, Dave Opplinger, Elizabeth Bajis, Pete Drescher, and Linda Barr hold a discussion in their Man's Search for Identity class.

When Mr. Miller's Mark Twain class becomes too much, the only thing left to do is dream of the riverboats.

Department Teachers: (sitting) Mrs. Elizabeth Potrykus, Mr. Richard Chapman, Miss Lillian Perry; (standing) Mrs. Nancy Jo Condland, Mrs. Kathleen Tate, Mr. Donald Aikins, Miss Elaine Faba, Mr. Larry Miller, Miss Lorlie Brown, Mrs. Ruth Meyer (chairman), Miss Frances Fisher, and Mr. James Duncan.

English Department staff: Mr. Robert Trapp, Mrs. Kathy Goldsworthy, Miss Francis Korbela, Mrs. Elizabeth Potrykus, and Mr. Irvin Hayward.

Of course, Literary Exploration class is enjoyable.

Students Open Lines of Communication

Sue Borovich pantomimes Cinderella as she prays to her fairy godmother to let her go to the ball.

Mr. Trapp's sixth hour class learns all about radio broadcasting. Some of these students will go on to broadcast from our own radio station, WCFI.

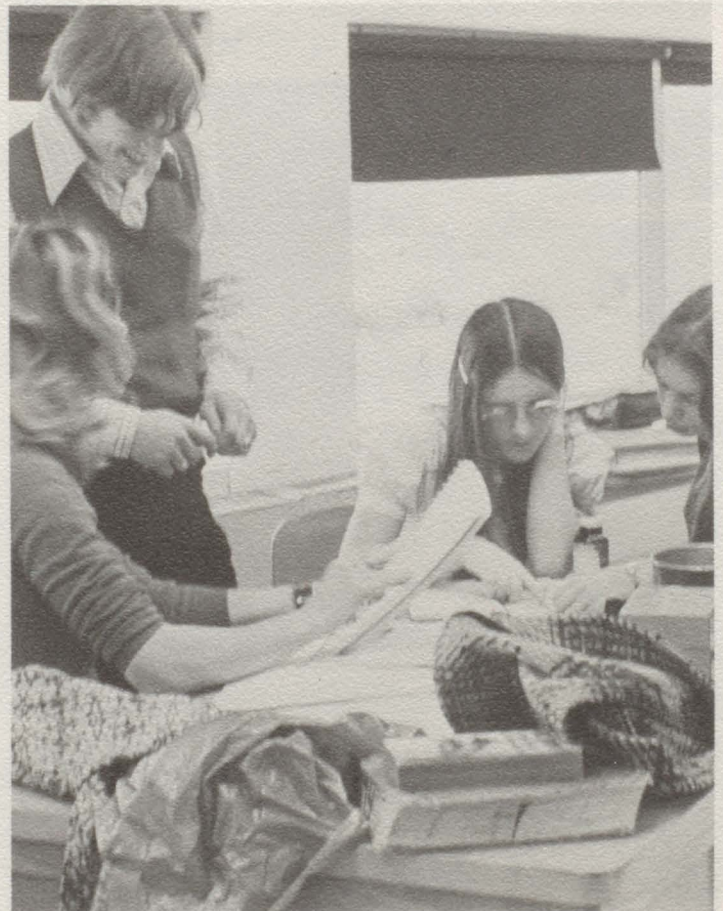

There comes a time in everyone's life when you want to re-arrange yourself a bit.

The Bill of Rights grants everyone an equal right to speak his mind. Basic Communications, Speech 1 and 2, and a Radio Broadcasting class provide opportunities to learn talking effectively, intelligently, and responsibly.

In Basic Communications and Speech 1 and 2, the student is challenged with organizing speech material for pantomimes, demonstrations and impromptu speeches.

In the Broadcasting class, spontaneous and impromptu speeches teach the students poise for a broadcasting situation. The broadcaster hopes to convey a specific image in the listener's mind through his choice of words and the way he presents it. This class manages Northern's own radio station, WCFI, fm.

With these skills and experiences the students gain confidence in themselves to enable them to speak up for what they believe.

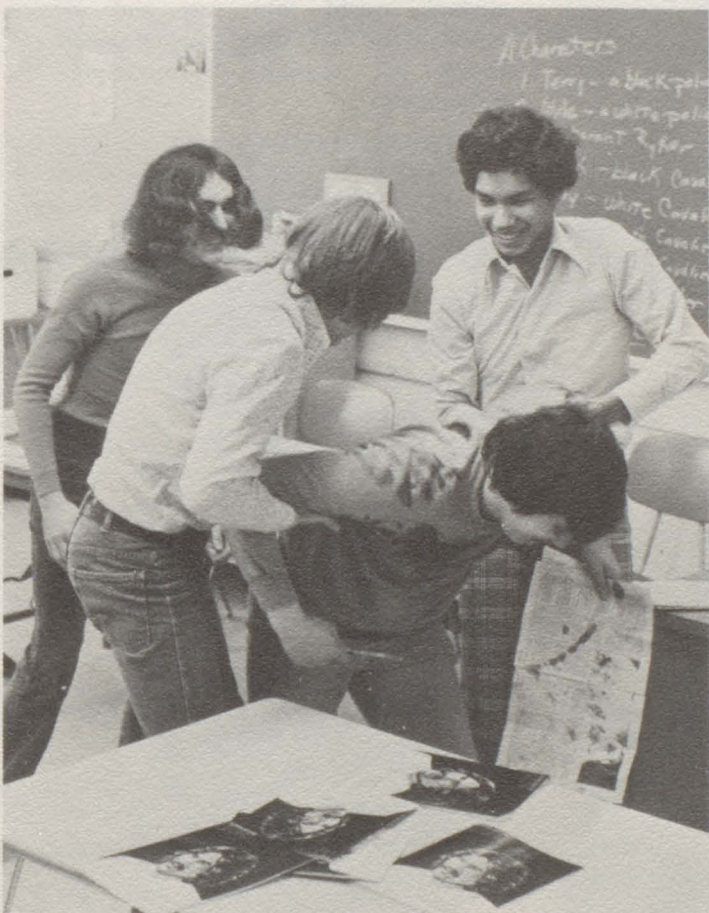

Dave Mason, Linda Eagle, and Carol Burns go over rough draft copies of their speeches in Miss Korbela's Basic Communications class.

Writing Courses Stimulate Self-Expression

Hmm! There's no better way to get that brain working in a writing class than by learning the order for a term paper and practicing.

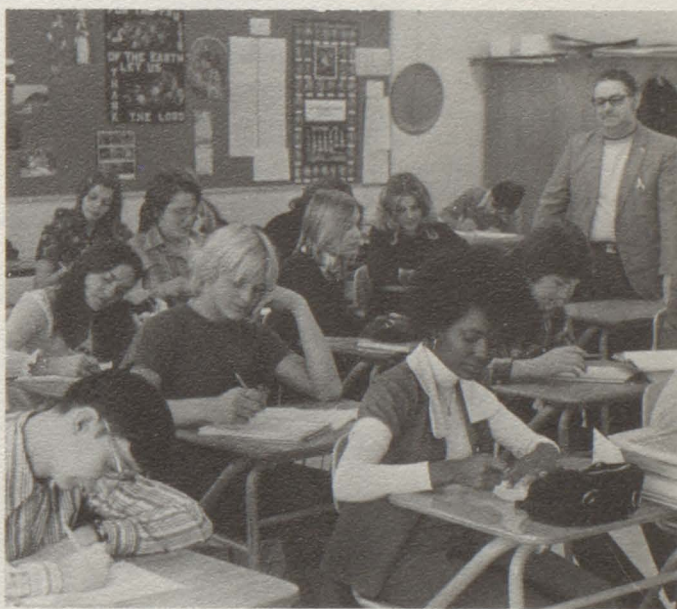

Joe Koss, Craig Rich, Jose Gonzales, and Richard Daniel reenact a street fight scene from "The Rookies" in their Ninth Grade English.

Northern's composition classes enable the student to express his ideas on paper exactly how he feels about them.

There are three composition courses this year. The students in Creative Writing allow their imaginations to get the best of them. They express their imaginative ideas through poetry, short stories, plays, and writing children's storybooks. Those in Composition and Discovery in Writing learn the basic fundamentals for good writing. In Composition the unconscious must flow freely in paragraphs of description, narration, and exposition.

Composition can be a breeze for those who are creative, but for the average writer it takes a little more thinking to come up with some good pieces of writing.

Mr. Hayward's Composition class learn the fundamentals for a well-written piece of writing. Here the class is putting their knowledge to use.

Mr. Dougherty's fourth hour Civics class was among those classes that went to the county jail in Port Huron. The class has also taken other trips to many places, among which include the circuit court trials.

Mrs. Otis' second hour P.O.D. class listens intently as some of the machines are explained to them at Watling Lerchen & Co. stock brokers.

Social Studies teachers: SEATED — Mrs. Ellen Rogers, Mrs. Karen Otis, Miss Cherie Drewyore, Mrs. Eugenia Becker, Miss Doris Warren; STANDING — Mr. Gary Young, Mr. Clinton Mosher, Mr. Cyril Smith, Mr. Robert Clark, Mr. Sam Coughenour, Mr. Fred Green, Mr. Thomas Hamilton, Mr. Glen Pike, and Mr. Richard Dougherty (chairman).

Students Learn

How can Americans contribute to our government and society? Northern's Social Studies Department hopes to bring a greater awareness of today's problems by looking at past problems and how they were solved.

The student comes in contact with the structure of government in Civics. Speakers and class discussions orientate new aspects of ecology, Communism, and drugs.

Students in World Problems are engrossed in the study of ten ancient Asian cultures and how they have influenced other civilizations.

The Michigan history course covers the early Indian tribes, industrial development, and educational growth. The class also learns about our government on the state, county, and local levels, with emphasis on the St. Clair County and Port Huron area.

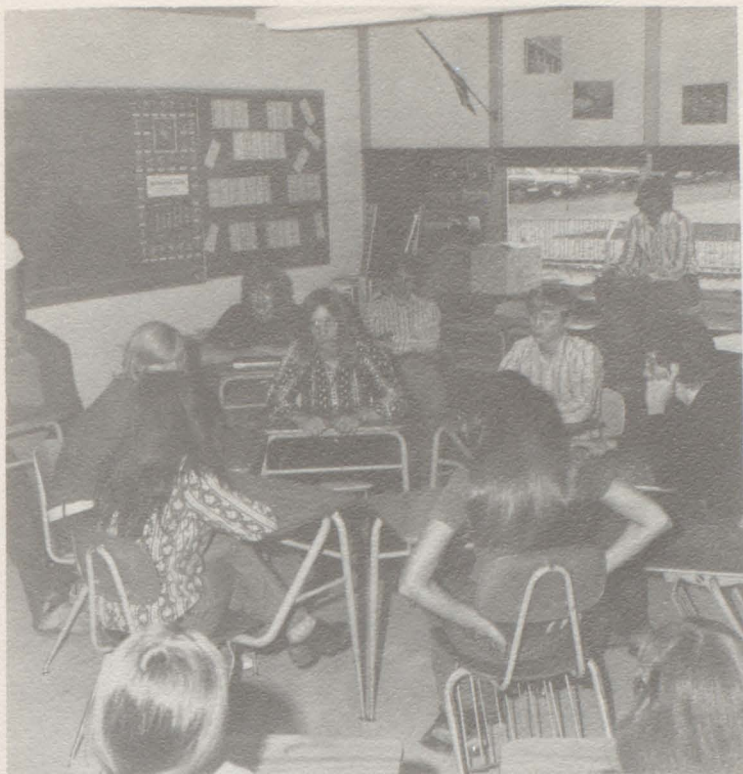

To help the students in a more practical sense, a Futuristics Class is in the making. Mr. Walter Lyszak and Mr. Richard Dougherty have been planning a course that will stress the complexities of future planning and will deal with such topics as ecology, regionalism, social change, and economic change.

These classes are designed to give the student insight into past and present problems so that today's young people can better our society by updating the government.

Jeff Raider and Denise Webster point out their stock of Past, Present for Future

Mr. Pike's fourth hour American History class discusses some modern topics in "fish bowl" method.

Different Lifestyles and Cultures Interest

Language is the greatest method of communication. Students engage in foreign language classes to learn about different types of people and their language.

A number of methods and resources are used to teach the student the maximum amount of knowledge in a specific language. Throughout the German, Spanish, and French classes, filmstrips, movies and informal conversations teach the student ease in speaking while learning a wide vocabulary for maintaining an intelligent conversation.

Unfortunately, this year's language classes do not have access to the language lab. High replacement costs for damaged equipment have forced it to be closed. The laboratory had been especially helpful to students by allowing them to hear themselves as they spoke. This encouraged them to build good speaking accents.

Foreign languages can be useful to the students in future travels, understanding foreign speech among relatives and learning foreign customs.

First year Spanish students hold some of the show cards they use to learn the language. The lessons are based on and around the Fernandez Family.

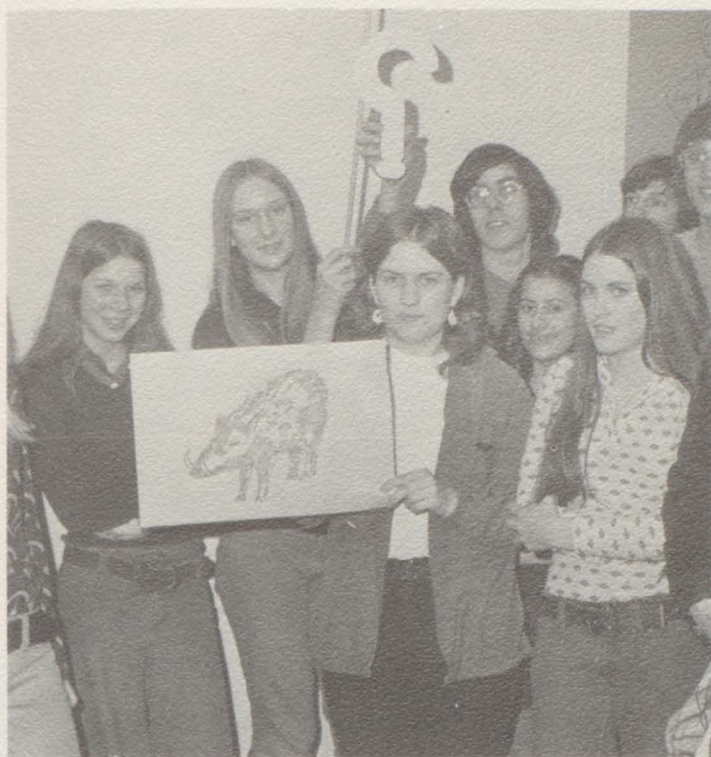

Lisa Kober and Brian Dooley play hangman in German class. Unfortunately, Brian didn't make the right guesses and is hung.

Language Classes

Is second year Spanish class a bore?

Some students in German class would like to go to Germany after learning so much in class about the Germans and their styles.

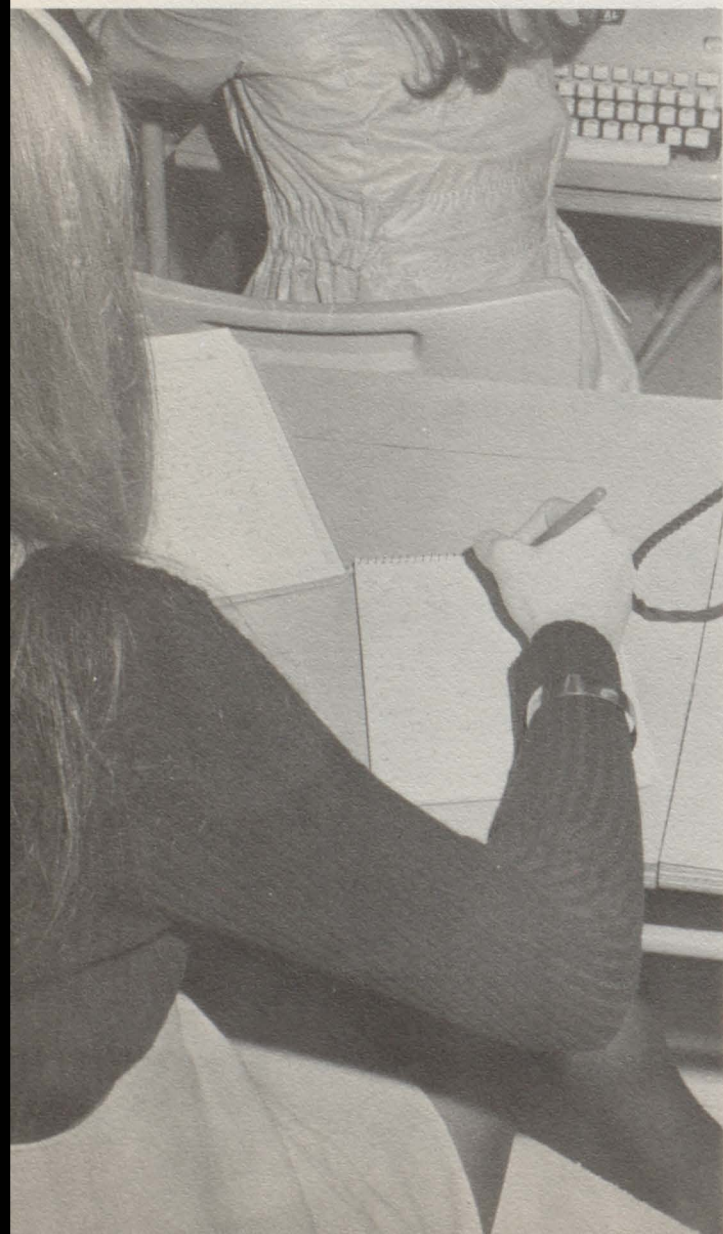

Some of the lessons in French can become troublesome. The class finds that one way to spend a break is to do the Can-can.

Typing class requires concentration and flexible fingers. The students learn to type with rhythm by typing to music.

The students in Shorthand know that precision in writing is essential in passing the class. Words must be written distinctly and without error or words like "sack" become "sick."

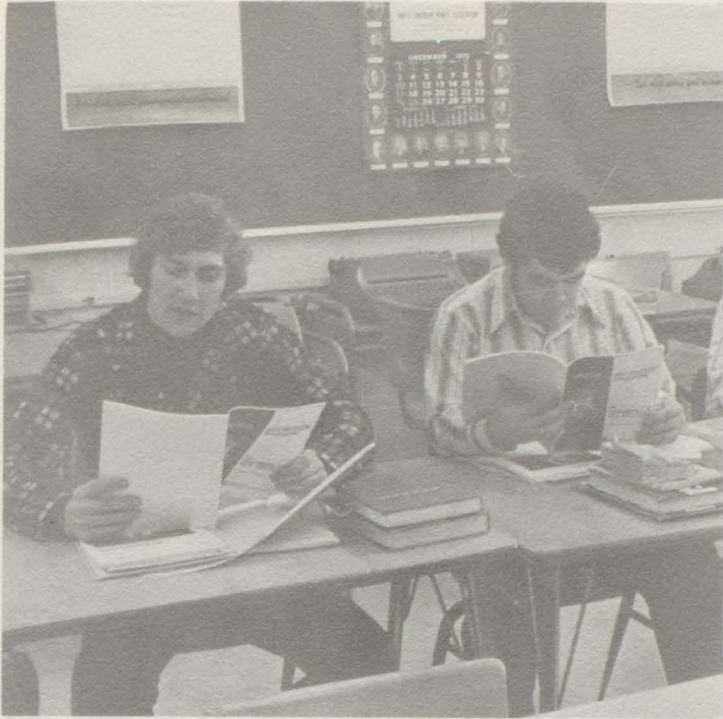

Mr. McEwen's Record-Keeping class consists of lab work. Here the class works on some of the essentials for good record keeping.

Mary Armstrong and Dawn Osgood use the dictation and typewriter, and adding machines in their Office Machines Class. They will be able to add, subtract, multiply, and divide in a considerably shorter period of time.

Students Earn Credit In Job-Like Situations

Dan Armbruster and Bill Belanger look through some of the work books they will be using later in the semester in Data Processing Class.

Because business is a big world, Northern's Business Education Department offers classes that would best expand knowledge for fulfilling future ambitions.

Such classes as Shorthand, Transcription, Typing, and Record-Keeping are designed to teach the student the necessary skills for efficiency. Office Practice establishes an orderly means of filing. The department has general classes as in General Business and specific such as Date Processing. A Business English class instructs proper speech and writing forms for business correspondence. A personal typing class teaches the non-business student the keyboard and basics of margin setting for college term papers and personal writing.

A Business Work-Experience Program in which students are assigned to a training station in the grade centers or library is also offered. These students are under the supervision of administrators and evaluated by the Business Department chairman.

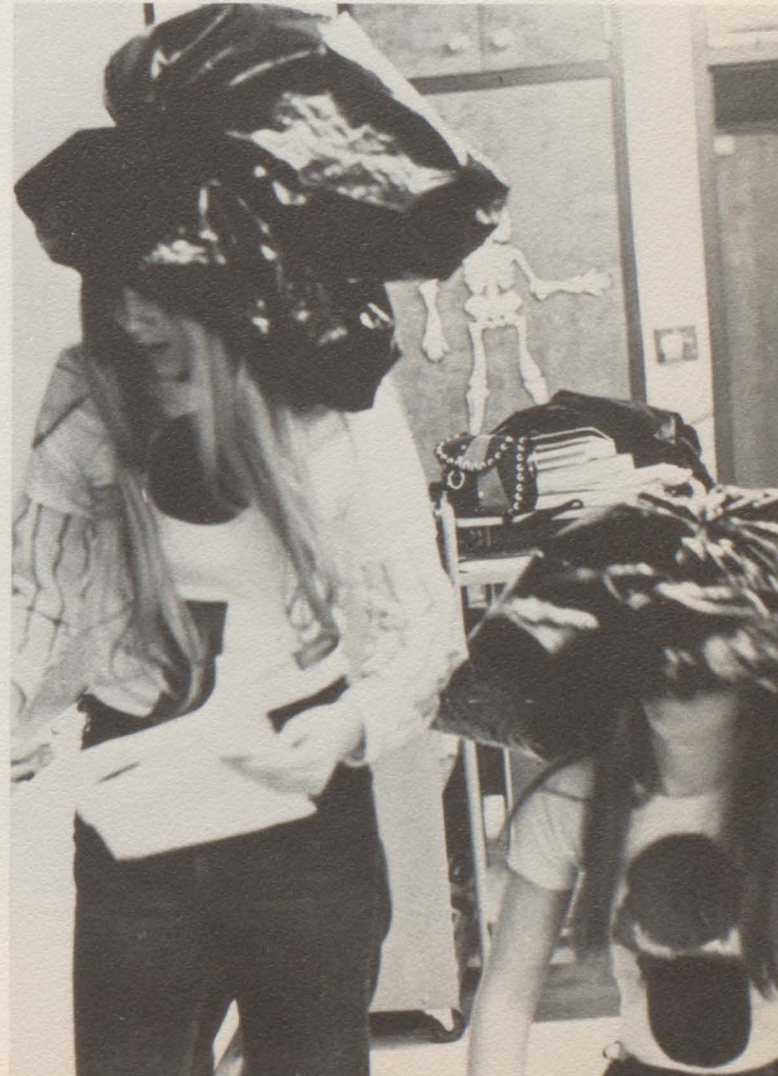

In addition, an Office Occupations Clerical Block is being offered at Port Huron High for Northern Students. Its goals are to train them for possible entry positions in an office. Northern hopes to offer an Office Occupations Block for secretarial students.

Educating the students for today's changing trends in business will enable them to pursue wholesome careers.

Laurie Illingsworth and Cheryl Wisson demonstrate the use of the colon and semi-colon in a skit in Miss Knapp's Business English.

Industrial Arts Develops Skills and Creativity

Sawing, Drawing, Hammering, Gluing and Designing are everyday activities in the Industrial Arts Program at Port Huron Northern.

Industrial Arts helps teach the students the importance and the tools of Industry to help him understand how much the world today depends on the products of Industry.

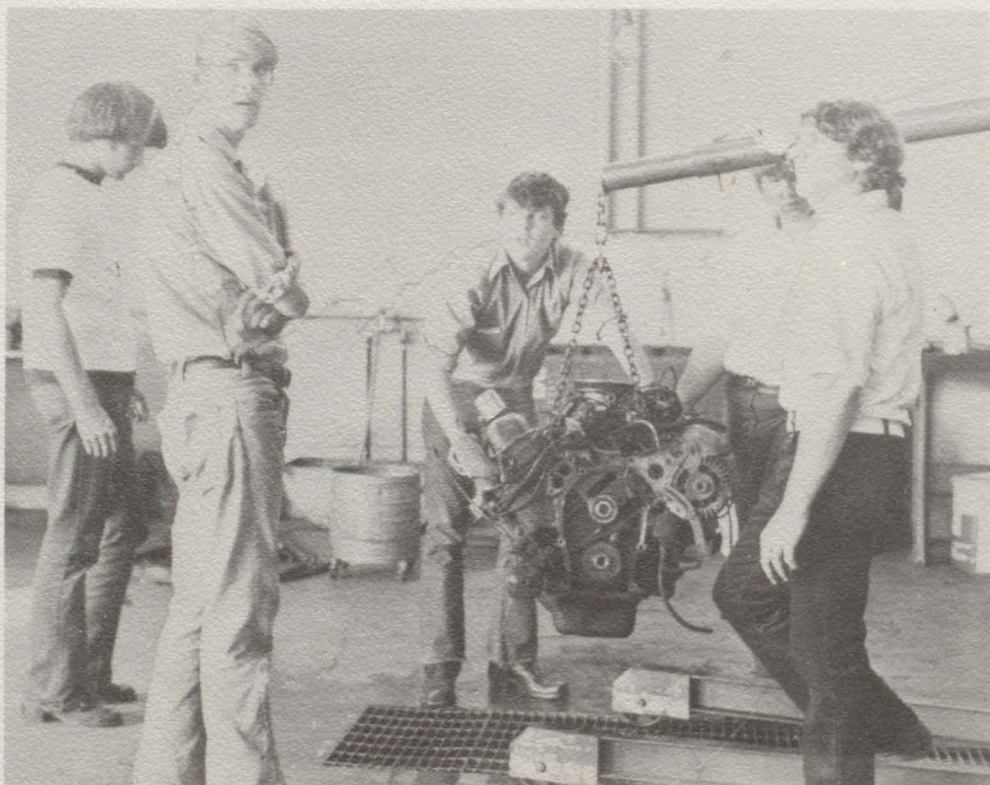

Industrial Arts also includes education in the areas of hobbies and career or trade.

The courses in Industrial Arts are designed for both beginners and for the more advanced.

CO-OP Offers An Ideal Situation for Many Students

'Sweets for a Sweet' looks to be the sentiment here as Steve McCalmon waits on a customer, Colleen McCarty, during his first hour Marketing class. From the looks of things, Steve has made a sale.

The Co-op Program gives Northern seniors the opportunity to gain on-the-job training and experience in various businesses in Port Huron. Students gain insight into their future plans while earning money at the same time. Most Co-op students carry three academic classes, including a related class, and then report to their job. Co-ops are given one school credit for their work experience. The Co-ops are graded according to their work attitudes, habits, appearance and performance.

Mr. Tinsley and Mr. Gable are in charge of the Co-Op department. They keep in touch with the employers to make sure the students are doing their jobs well.

Tony Guizar and Bob Hartnett take turns giving sales speeches in their Marketing class. Sales pitches are an important part of any job.

Sandy Seldon works on her co-op job as one of the secretaries to Mr. Gable and Mr. Tinsley.

Before students at beauty college can get "on the floor" to do the public's hair, they must go through many hours of classroom work and fix fake hair. To get in a little practice they take turns doing each other's hair, as Karen Lane and LuAnn Molinaro are doing.

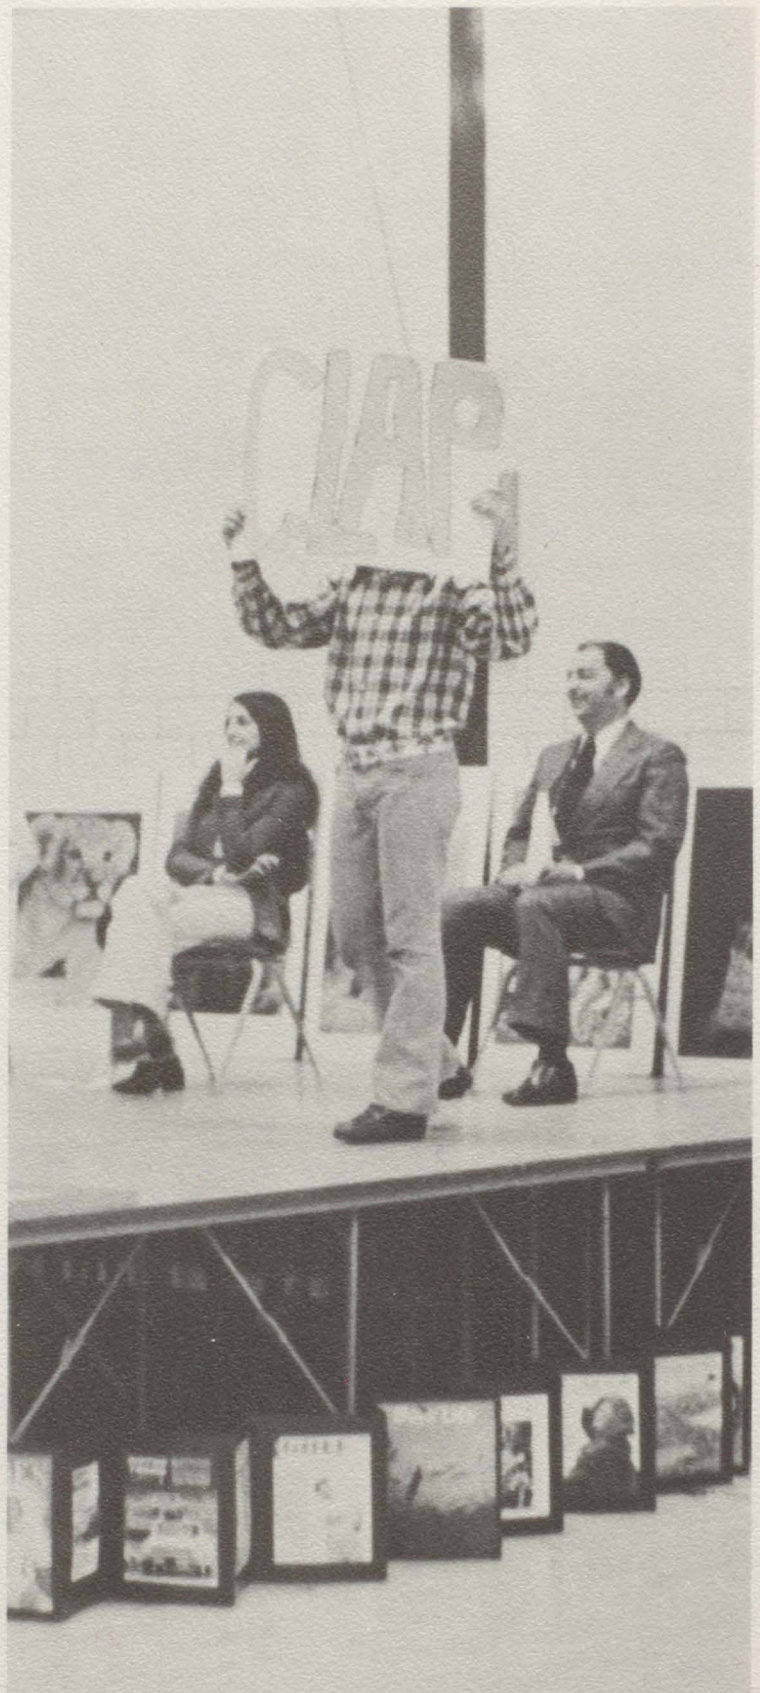

Tina Tarsi takes an order from a customer while working for Herb Rosine's Chick-N-Joy on Pine Grove Avenue.

Student Life—

Hands of involvement. Student Life is truly an important part of high school; where a student can try his hand at anything and everything that interests him.

A great variety of clubs and activities enable him to branch out in different directions, fulfill his interests, and create new ones. Whether the interest lies in Debate Club, Mardi Gras activities, Future Nurses, or Student Council, all are available for the enjoyment of Northern students. They provide not only enjoyment, but experience in working and living hand-in-hand with others.

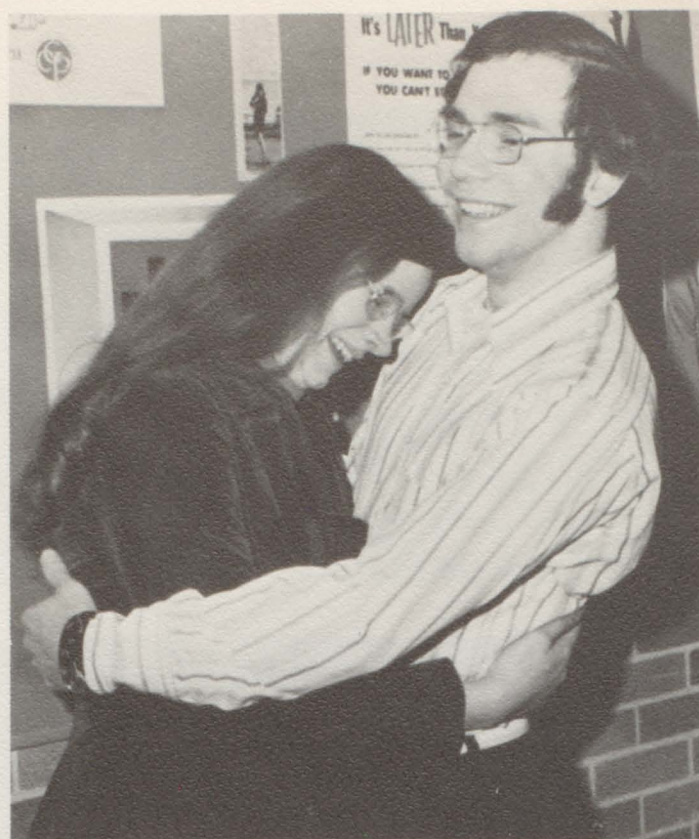

Student Life is present not only in clubs and planned activities but also it is felt everyday throughout the halls of Northern. The trips to McDonald's for lunch, a new friend, the morning walk around the halls before homeroom, or the many other seemingly insignificant incidents all add up to a happy and memorable Student Life.

Jeff Rader gives a proud smile when it comes to doing his work.

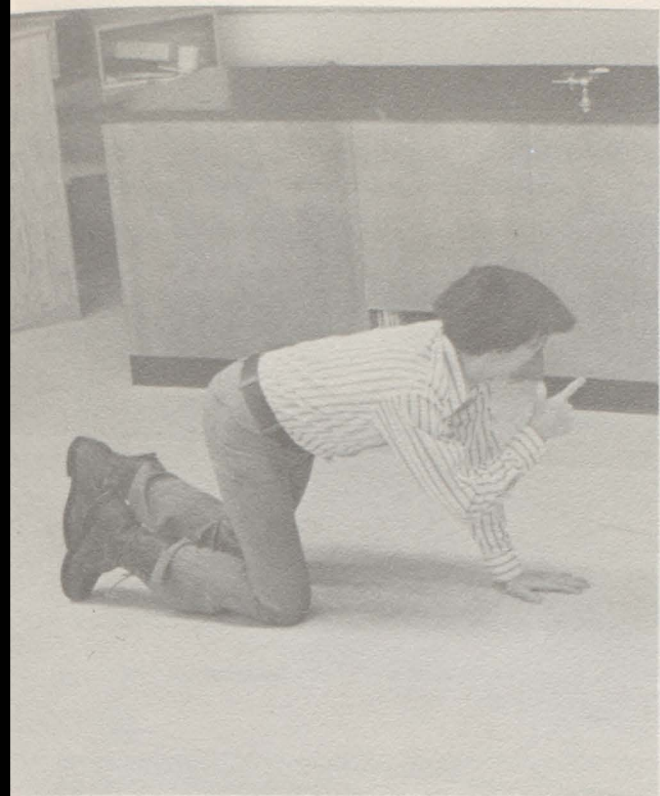

The Spark Plug Margret Cichoracki and the Drum Major Dave Raumbaum really show their spirit.

ANGELA RABBACH

Angela was brought to Port Huron by the Youth for Understanding Organization. Angela is enjoying her stay here while living with Debbie Hyde's family. RISTO LOUHSOLA

Risto is coming to school here, also through the Youth for Understanding Organization. Risto is staying with Tom Geise's family. Back at his school in Helsinki, Finland, he was an average student, but here he maintains a 3.5 average. Risto knows four languages and has had six years of English.

Campus Life Promotes Balance Activities

Chess Club is for playing chess. Ski Club is for skiers. Future Nurses gives a view of what nursing is like. Where does "Campus Life" fit in? This club is concerned with more than "life on campus." Its aim is to get a fresh hold on life in general.

Zany activities like a Burger Bash, Scream in the Dark, holiday conventions, and weekly meetings relieve tedium during the school year.

At the informal Thursday night meetings there are games, ad libs, and rap sessions about issues like marriage, security, identity, running away. They give kids opportunity to think through who they are and what they're doing in life.

As a division of Youth for Christ, Campus Life emphasizes balanced growth not only socially, mentally, and physically but also spiritually. Kids are challenged to investigate the real Jesus Christ and what it means to have a personal relation with Him in all of life.

"King's bishop four to queen's bishop three." "Check." "Checkmate." Sound familiar? For those students who stay after school every Thursday it is just a sample of a chess players vocabulary. Believe it or not, there are still some students who stay after school for a club.

This year's club is sponsored by Miss Warren. There are seven members. These members play against each other in competition and have set up games against other students from P.H.H.S. and P.H.C.H.S. Minor changes in the constitution have improved regulations governing the club.

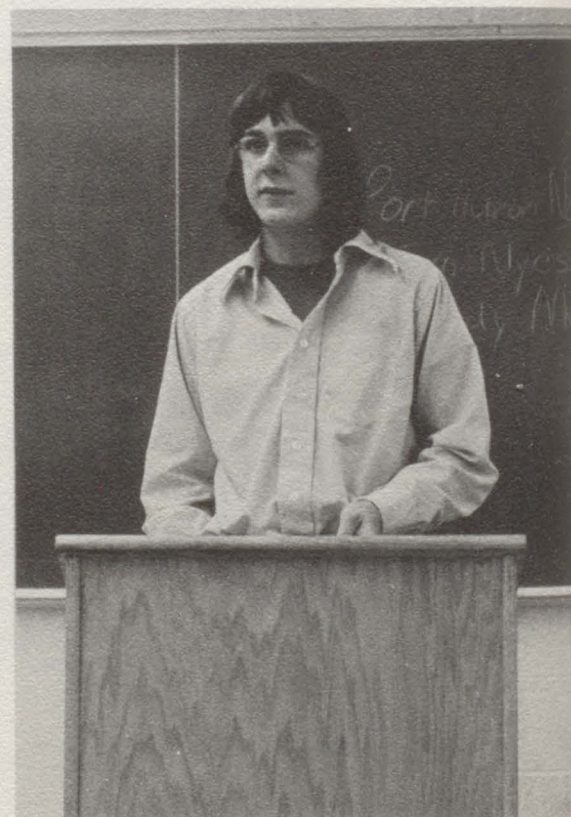

Competition, Logic and Research Make Good Debates

Debate is a formal type of arguing. Debate is competitive and gives Northern debaters a chance to get together in a group consisting of forty-four students from a variety of schools, and participate in inner scholastic competition. Debating gives students the chance to obtain skills in public speaking and skills in research. Debating also helps those students who are going into the practice of law or other political fields.

The Northern's Debate teams participated in the Blue Water Debate league along with other specially scheduled debate. Other debates took place at the Junior College Invitational and the Womens Study Club. The St. Clair County Community College Skippers High School Debate Tournament took place over Christmas vacation, which gave Northern students more experience in debate.

Jim Nyste, Randy Martinek, Ron Deroscher, Jim Ward, and Jan Herrington are the members of the Northern Debate Club. Missing is Rusty Warton.

Candy Strippers Volunteer Time for Patients

Potter, Ellen Waters, and Linda Eagle. Miss Iris Nelson is sponsor for the group.

Do you enjoy helping people back to health? Have you been thinking of nursing as a career? The Future Nurses Association at Northern gives you a chance to learn what is involved.

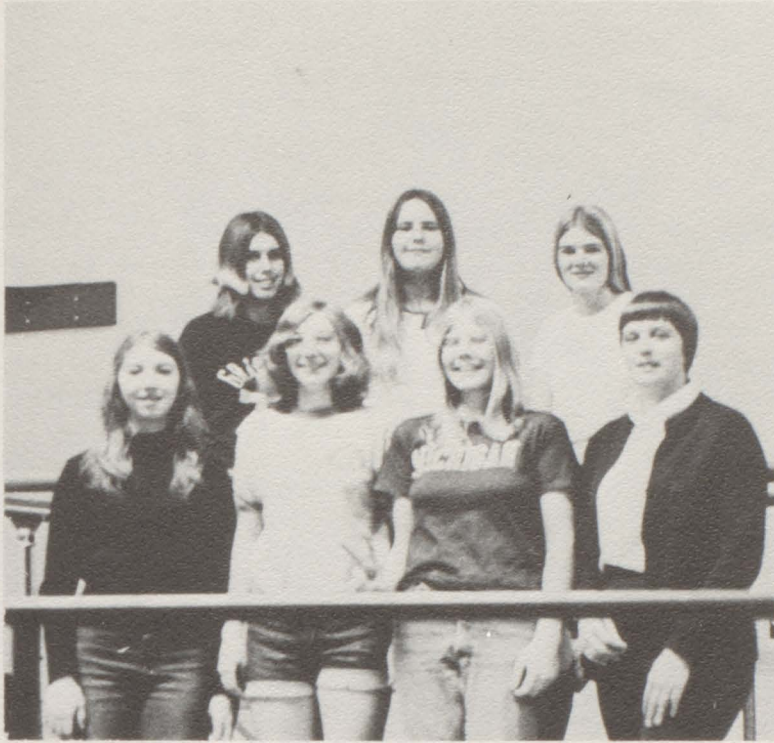

The girls receive a basic first aid course. This gives them a knowledge for medical attention in an emergency. The girls volunteer much of their time to helping at the hospital as candy strippers. A candy stripper does small jobs such as filling jugs with water for the patients and helping out in the nursery. The girls who devote their time seriously find it is very rewarding.

Special activities this year include helping to give shots at nearby intermediate and elementary schools. The girls also toured the University of Michigan hospital.

Patti Jo Brush, Cathy Peacock, and Barbara Pancratz locate the muscle on the skeleton where a shot is usually given. They are practicing to give shots to some elementary students.

Girls Enjoy Strenuous Activity, Competition

Physical activity is an important factor in the lives of the American people. Northern's Girls Athletic Association gives our female students a chance for having good physical exercise while having fun.

Ability isn't a factor in joining, and there is a large selection of sports to satisfy each girl's desire. The year starts out with dodgeball in September and badminton in October. November offers gymnastics, and December has basketball. The months of January and February are busy with volleyball. March, April, and May focus on crab-soccer, floor hockey, softball, track and field, and field hockey.

Besides the usual meetings, there are other special activities in which the girls participate. These include a family night, spring camp, and the annual March of Dimes Peanut Sale. Raising money for activities is done through sales from the concession stands at the home football and basketball games.

At the end of the year a dinner is held in which certificates and special awards are presented to deserving members.

It takes an all-out team effort from both teams to make a good basketball game. Good sportsmanship is always appreciated, too.

Fellowship?! Brotherhood? That's right! That's exactly what Lakers Hi-Y aims for. How many people will go out with little kids who are selling candy? Lakers do, just to insure their safety. In other attempts to cultivate fellowship and brotherhood the Lakers take part in such community projects as painting the old chapel in Lakeside cemetery, and Christmas caroling ...

But the big project Lakers look forward to is their annual trip to Lansing, where they occupy the Capitol building for three days. They finance their own trip by raising money.

Lakers went to Detroit in March to meet with other Hi-Y members from all over Michigan to elect representatives to hold the positions of Governor and Lieutenant Governor. Then Senators and Representatives are appointed. In April all six hundred of those elected congregate at the Capitol.

What do they do there? This is the one chance high school boys get to show the Michigan Legislature how to run the government.

Chuck Drescher and Tom Staiger ponder over an idea during a meeting.

Literature Club Members Work Hard for Niagra Trip

Gary Hubble does his best to sell Cathy May a place mat.

Exploring and understanding literature is what Literature Club does best. To help understand the world that surrounds them, Lit Club goes to Niagara Falls. This is an annual trip which takes the members to three forts near the falls, as well as hike on the Indian trails. To earn their way, the Lit Club had car washes, sold place mats and sold suckers.

Denise Dazer, Corresponding Secretary, Beth Corbin Vice-President and Tom Stager, are the officers that lead the Lit Club.

'N' Club – N for Noticeable, Novelty, and Northern

A group of forty-four men make up this year's 'N' club. They all are letter winners of the varsity teams of football, basketball, wrestling, and the other sport activities. The 'N' club symbolizes leadership, sportsmanship, the sweat of victory and the rare but sometimes disbelief after losing. All this makes up a team, and Northern's finest players make up the 'N' club.

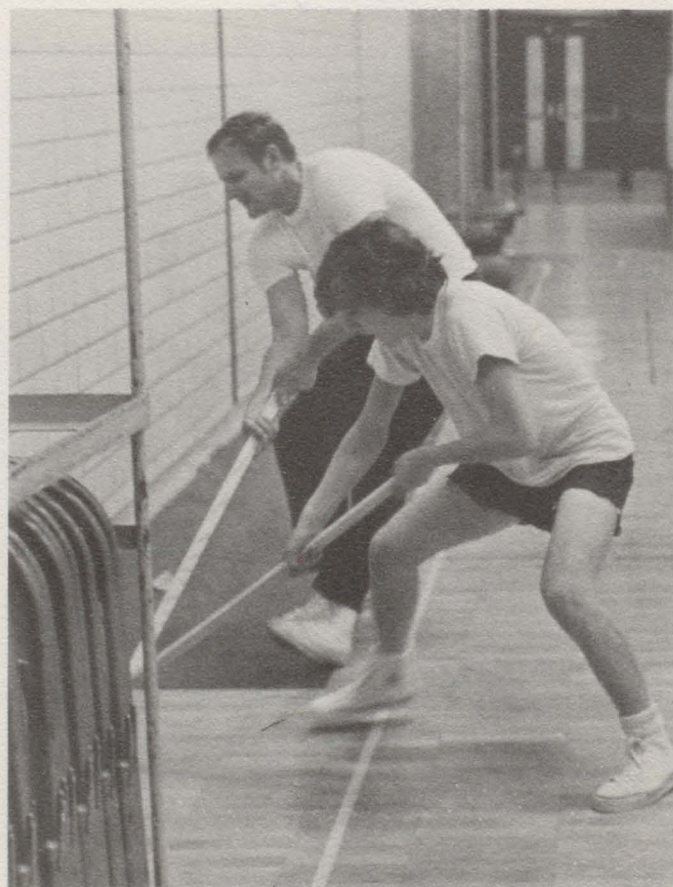

Mr. Bates, the football and basketball coach and successful sponsor, directs our letter winners in the 'N' club. They do not meet regularly but come together just to have a good time in Northern's gym or to plan a project. To raise funds for a canoe trip in the spring, they have been working on a project to buy a leg bench for the weight room.

Port Huron Northern Honor Society is one club a person can be proud to belong to. Why, it's an honor! Why do you think they call it Honor Society?

To be a member in such a club one must be an exceptional individual and prove to be outstanding in ability and responsibility. The Honor Society tries to achieve Character, Leadership, Scholarship, and Service.

Acknowledgement as a Honor Society member means accomplishment of these main purposes. Teachers make student evaluations that determine which students will be considered for membership.

Meetings are held in the Library, with the sponsor, Mr. James Norman, to plan activities and projects which promote service to the school and community.

HONOR SOCIETY OFFICERS: Dave Boden, president; Beth Millwood, secretary; Tom McPhee, vice-president; and Randy Martinek, treasurer. Their hard work is greatly appreciated.

This year Patti Brush reorganized the rifle club and is now president. Barb Pancratz is secretary of the club.

Rifle Club Aims for Excellence in Marksmanship

"Ready! Aim! Fire!" are the commands you would hear if you were a member of Port Huron Northern's Rifle Club. Any student who wants to establish good sportsmanship, learn how to handle a rifle, and learn how to shoot would be excellent as a member.

The Rifle Club holds its weekly shooting competition between members at the YMCA range.

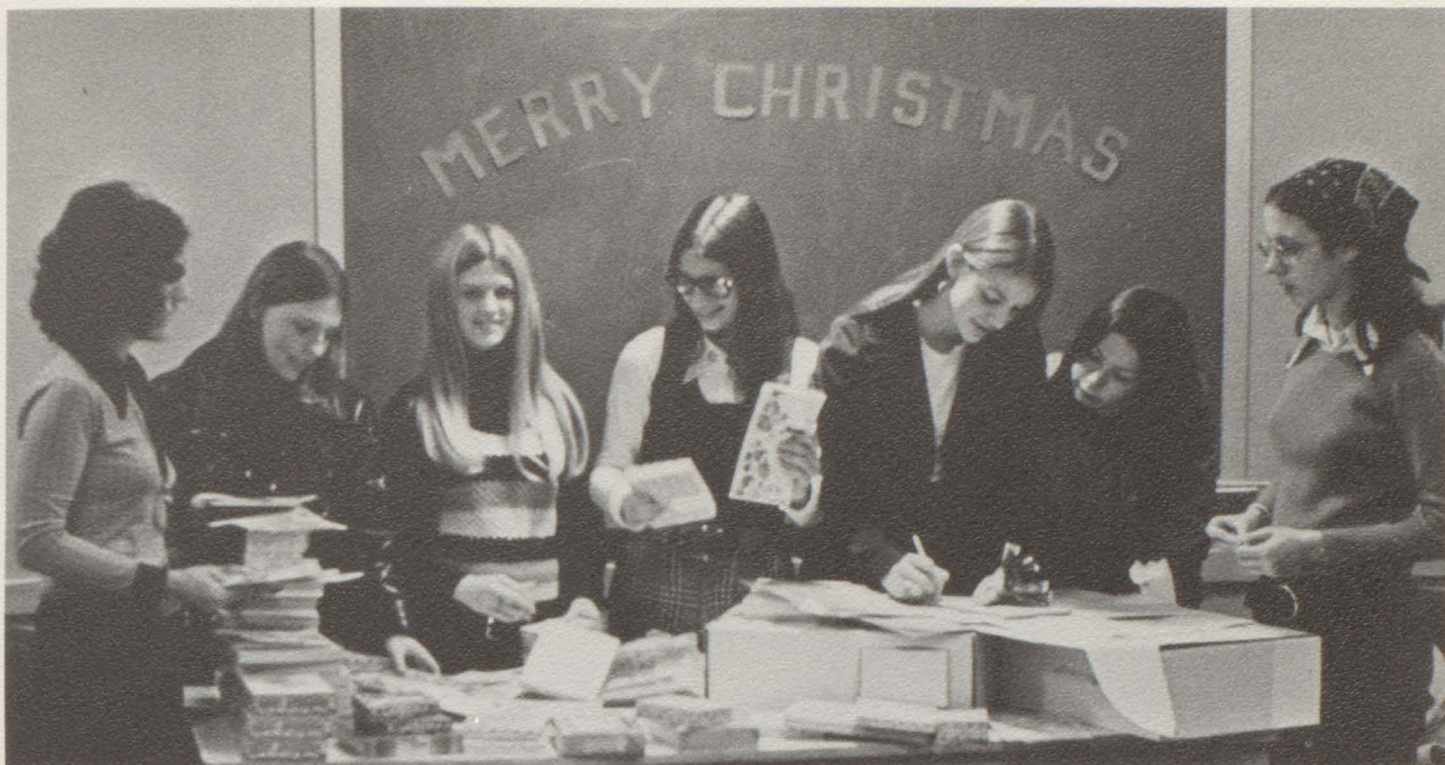

This year the Rifle Club sponsored a raffle and turkey shoot. Also, they held an open house at the YMCA where they demonstrated shooting and helped the visitors shoot at larger targets.

Competition with other National Rifle Association members is made more challenging by the experience gained from being in Rifle Club.

It is sponsored by Y.M.C.A. and Northern. There are 16 members with room for more. Regular meetings are held at the Y to plan community projects and services to help other people. During the Christmas season, much thought and caring was shared when the Tri-Hi-Y brought joy and respect to our elderly citizens by distributing presents at the Marwood Manor.

A trip to Lansing in March for the Moch-Legislative Preparation was fun for both the Lakers Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi-Y. Here they not only learned how a bill becomes a law but also had the experience of meeting new people. Miss Knapp, their active club sponsor, helps to create a pleasant and constructive atmosphere needed to maintain the mood during the meetings.

The members of the Snowdrifters club enjoy skiing together. They do their best to survive the winter in one piece. They took a ski trip to Sugarloaf during Christmas vacation, and also a three day trip to Blue Mountain, which took place during semester break. To help pay their way on these trips, the Snowdrifters had money-making projects. These projects consisted of selling candy apples and silk-screening T-shirts.

Sports —

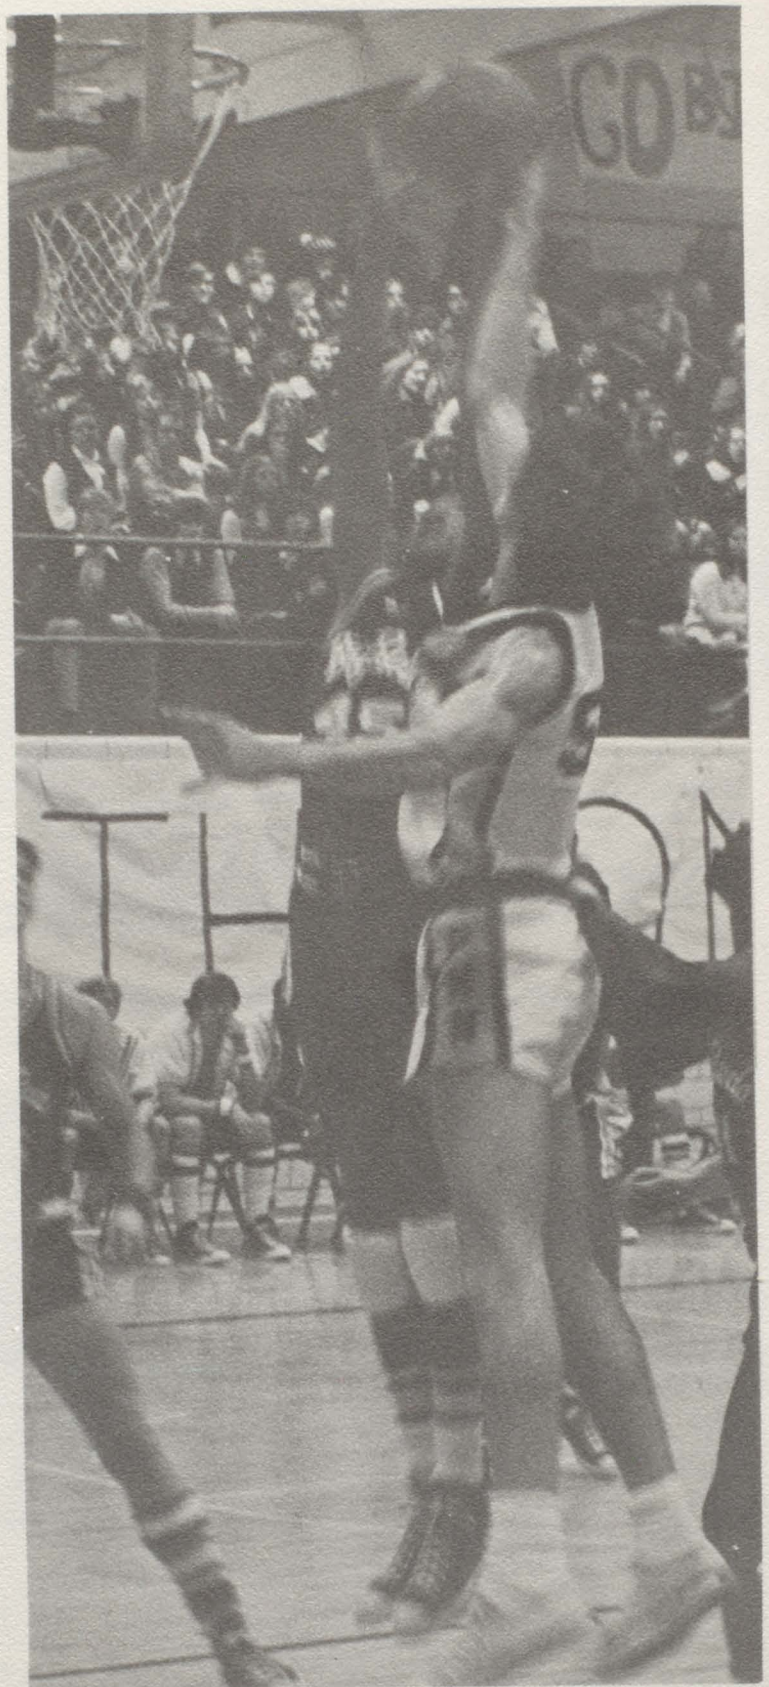

Competitive and skillful hands are displayed in this area of high school life. The accurate hands of a football quarterback, the swift hands of a tennis player, or the strong hands of a wrestler are vital to success in each of these sports.

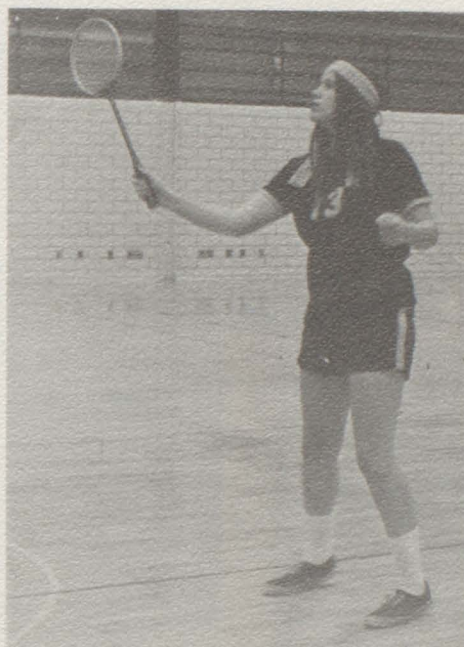

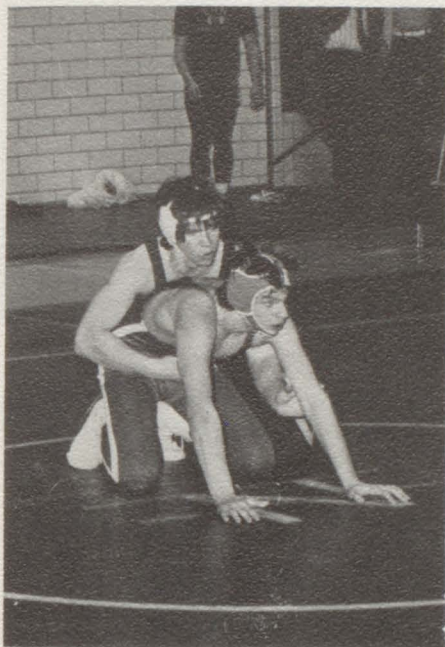

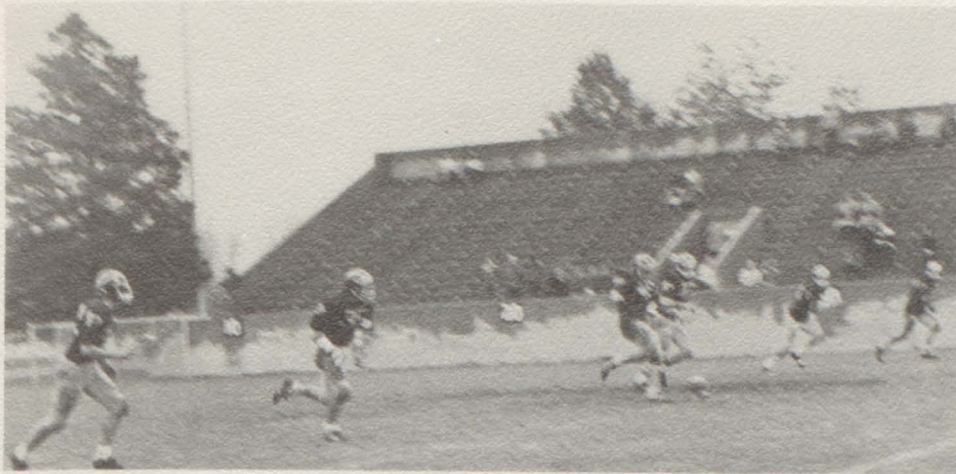

Sports activities enable a great number of people to become involved in the action. Whether they are participants in the sport itself, or whether they are members of a crowd of fans, all are drawn into the action of the contest.

This year, Northern's athletic program has been able to involve even more people. Girls' sports competition has been added to the program. They are now able to compete with girls from different schools in such sports as tennis, volleyball, and badminton.

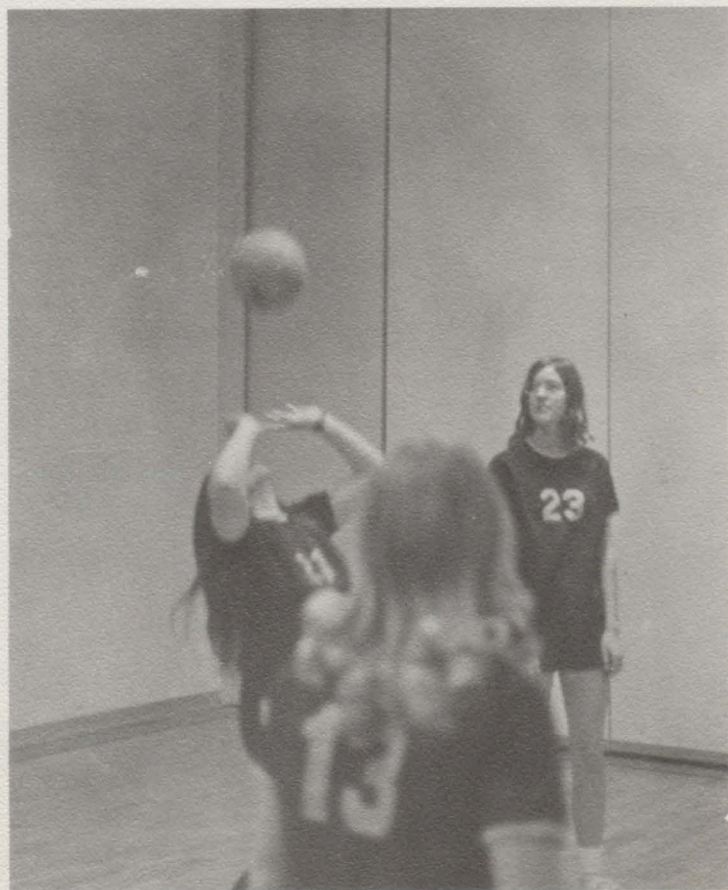

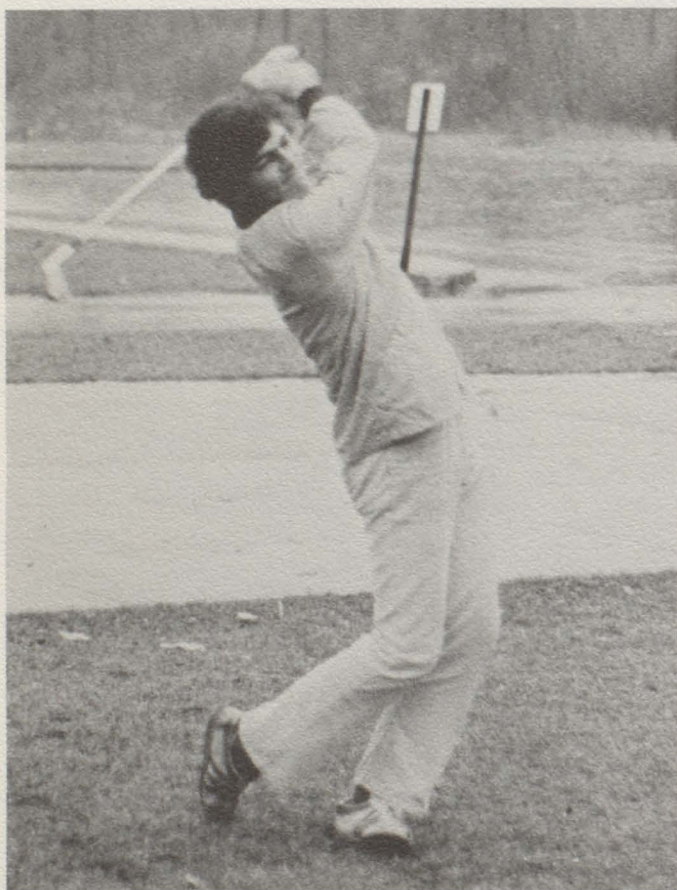

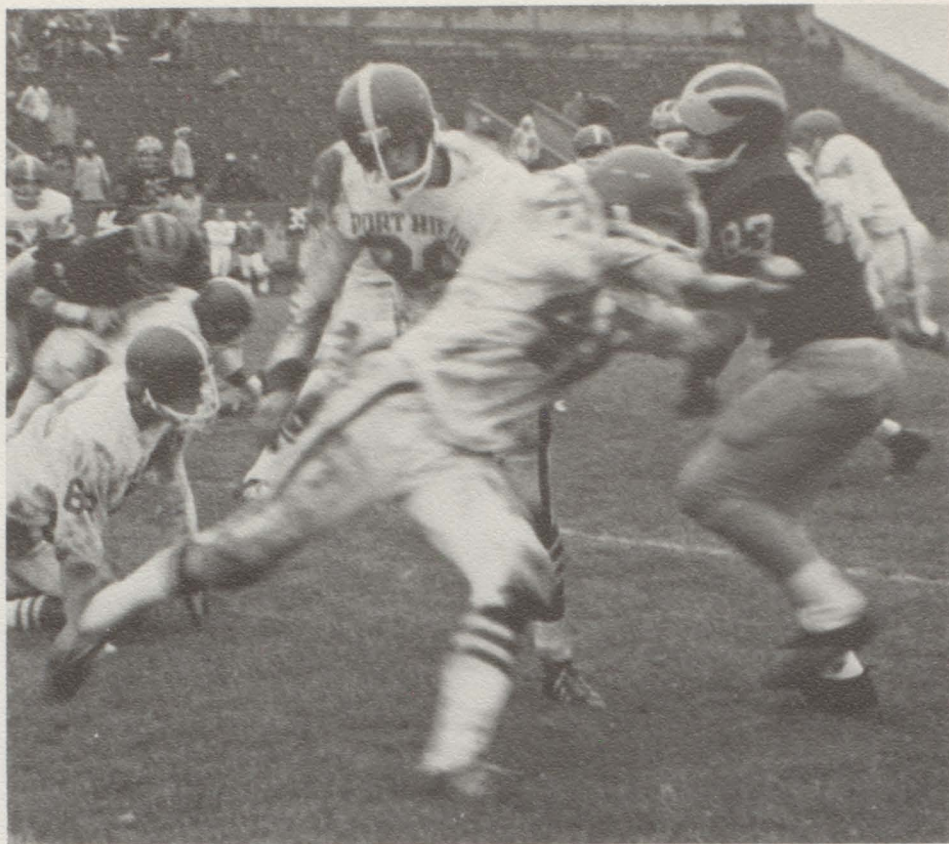

Northern's sports' participants and spectators create a favorable impression of our school.

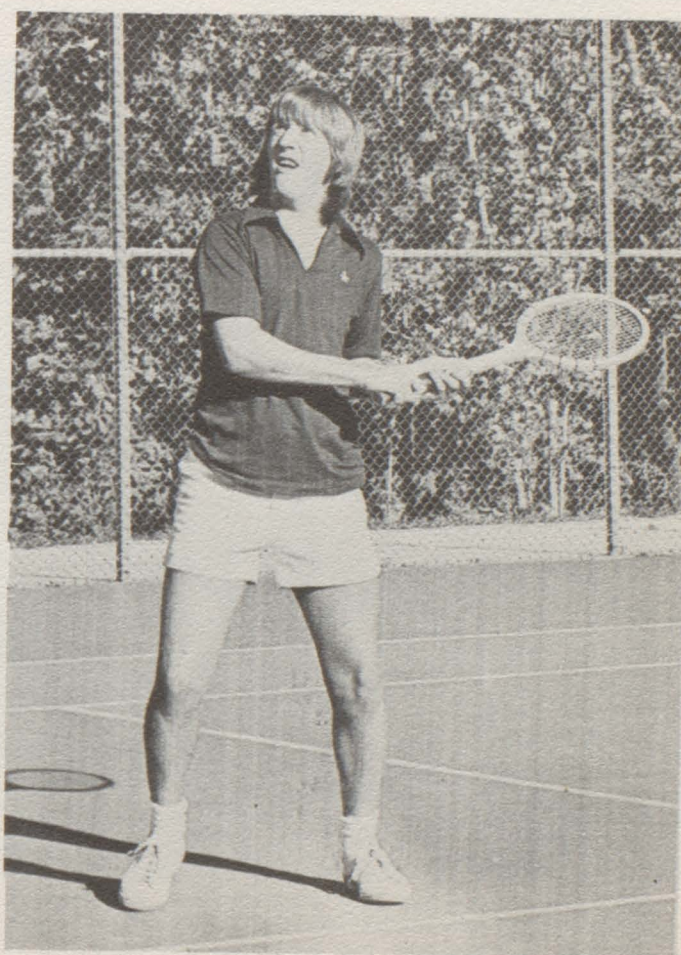

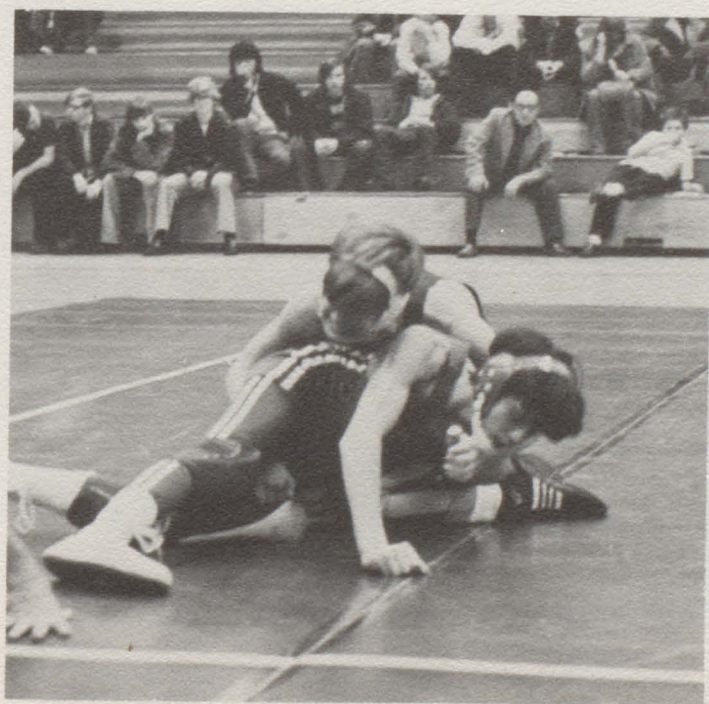

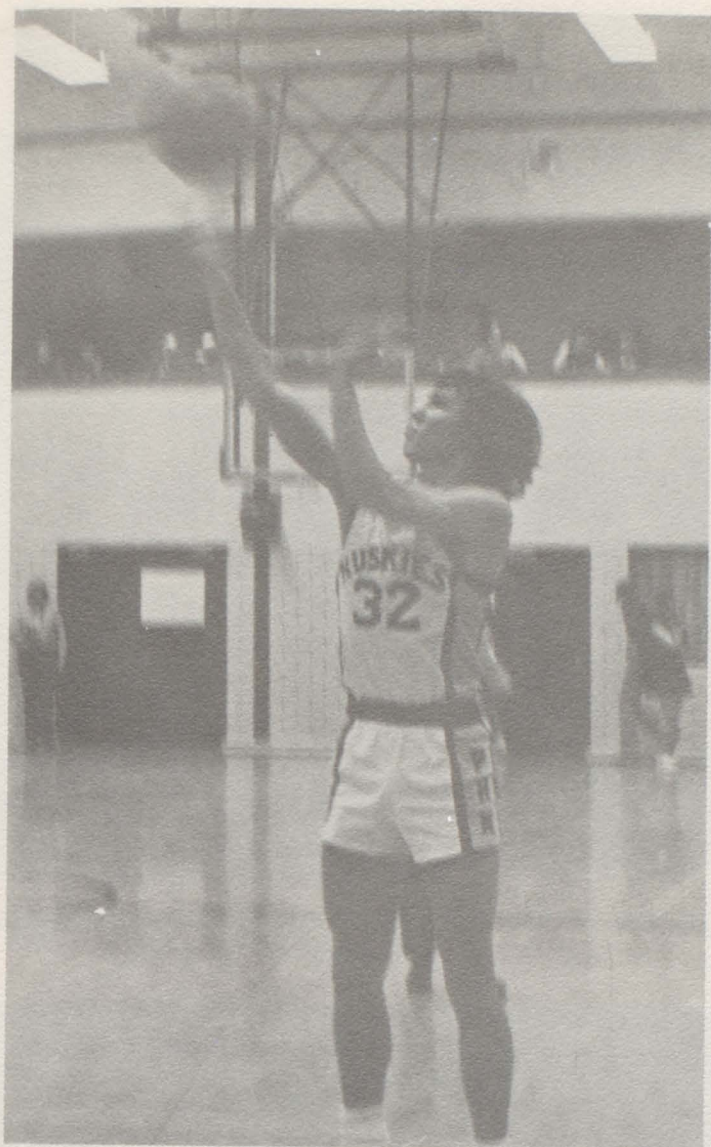

Athletes strive to demonstrate good sportsmanship and bring recognition to Northern. Spectators show pride in their athletes by giving the moral support that is many times needed to win the game.

Northern Says Good-Bye to Mr. Hayes

An important sports figure in the Port Huron Area was Mr. Robert Hayes, Athletic Director of our school. He left Northern late in November to become general manager of Hidden Valley, a resort in Gaylord, Michigan.

Not only was Mr. Hayes active in our sports program but he also taught American history.

The student body will remember him as an integral part of the athletic program.

In appreciation for his years of devoted service, the 1973 Spirit Staff dedicates this section to Mr. Hayes.

Student Body —

From Freshmen who possess questioning, searching hands, to Seniors with hands of experience.

Each different, but alike in the fact that they are all students of Northern High School. All held together in their search for knowledge and new experiences. Each lending a helping hand to one another when needed, experiencing happiness and struggle along the way.

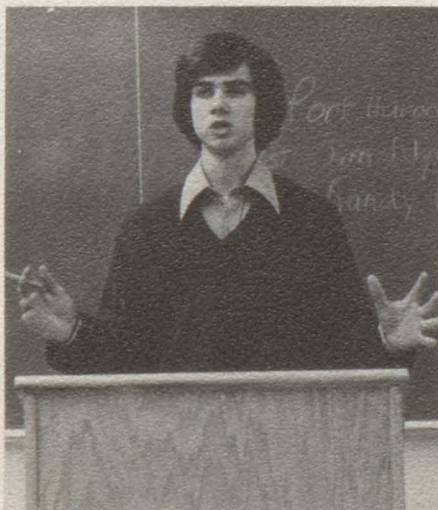

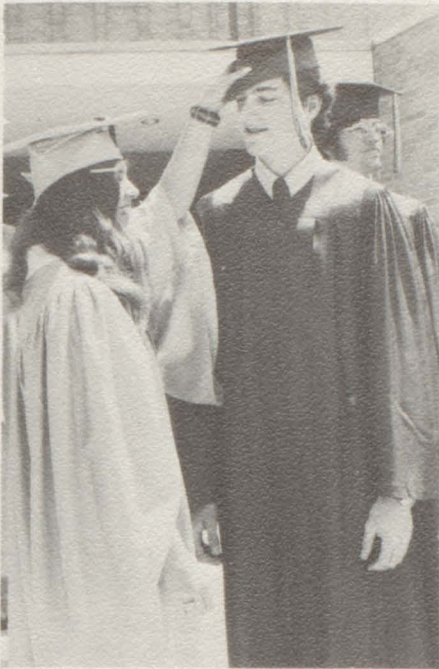

Uncertainty and apprehension are felt by Freshmen as they enter into their first year of high school. They wonder, "Will I like it? Will I meet new friends? Will I be successful?"

Any lack of class spirit or confidence that may have been shown while they were freshmen is made up during the Sophomore year. The shape of a truly united class is taken.

With half their high school days behind them, Juniors take a good look at their remaining years. Much time is devoted to maintaining good grade averages during this year.

Seniors, realizing their last year of high school, anticipate the future. They will soon be encountering new and challenging responsibilities. Their last year together as a class is a memorable one. Upon graduation many friends will part, but memories of their years at Northern will never be forgotten.

first day of school wrong classes the search for new lockers first football game fun of spirit week coming to school every morning exactly the same way i always have getting cold feet when meeting a senior on senior power day winning the mardi gras barrel as sophomores meeting new friends and getting to know old ones better running out in the cold during a false fire alarm hectic days for exams relief of our day week-ends changing ideals scramble to get a.c.t. test applications in before deadline remembering new year's eve and the beginning of 1973 developing new confidence no snow for skiing newspoints locker clean-out looking at the clock every five minutes yawning in study hall lollypop sale haunting mcdonald's hamberger joint at lunch writing a term paper in one night report cards happy moods gloomy pensive moods sad thoughts at graduation leaving old friends

We the Senior Class of '73 would like to express our thanks to Mrs. Marjorie Haugner, Dean; (above) Mr. Douglas Soule, Counselor; (left) and Mrs. Emma Fleming, Secretary (below) for their helpful guidance through the past four years. Their counseling and friendliness helped us through these trying years and brought about a better fulfillment of our goals.

As we look back on our high school life, the guidance we received, the friends we've made, and the knowledge we've acquired will always be treasured.

The time has come for graduation day, a day that seemed so far away four years ago, but has finally arrived. Now as we prepare for the future, we look back on those past years of embarrassment, tension, and excitement, for the Senior year is filled with the past, present, and future.

Minutes before graduation these members of the Senior class gather as Northern students for the last time, and later rejoice together as alumni.

'73 CLASS MOTTO — The great thing in this world is not so much where we stand as in what direction we are moving.

O.W. Holmes

CLASS COLORS — Navy Blue and Red.

CLASS FLOWER — Rose.

'73 Graduates Are On Their Way

Beth Millwood anxiously prepares to graduate.

Receiving a diploma is the most important goal in any Senior's life. Carol Joerger, Mark Borowski, Greg Thomson, and Donna Faught are happy they have reached this goal.

Jon Stiver, Cheryl Williamson, Mike Holth, Dell Bauslaugh, and Mark Sturtz reluctantly walk out of the doors of the past into the years of the future.

Senior Assembly has finally arrived for Dale Schoettle.

Seniors

Class of '73

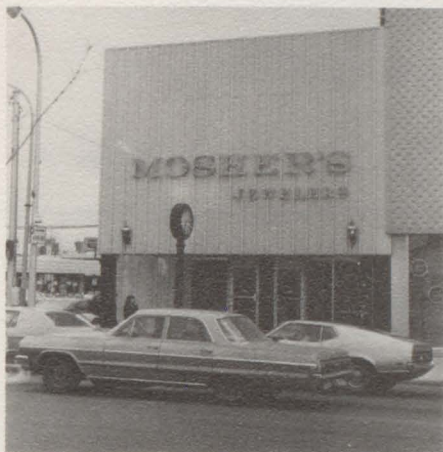

Community—

Students gain more than a daily classroom education at Northern. Through participating in such activities as the March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon, the magazine sale, the co-op program, and attending Board of Education or City Commission meeting, they experience a different type of education: One that can be gained only through becoming involved and experiencing new situations that are important in becoming useful members of our community.

The helping hand that is often received from business and community patrons in financing many of the various projects which Northern students undertake is recognized and appreciated by students.

The yearbook staff thanks all those who contributed to the production of the "Spirit of 1973," for without their help this book would not be possible.

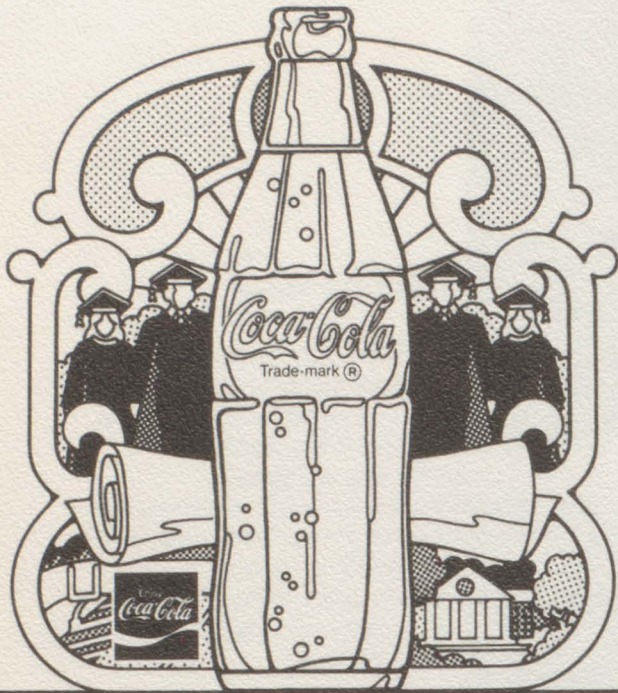

It's the real thing.

Teachers Take Up A Current Fad

No one can say that the male teachers at Northern are behind the times when it comes to keeping up with the current trends. The latest trend, growing mustaches, has become quite popular with many teachers.

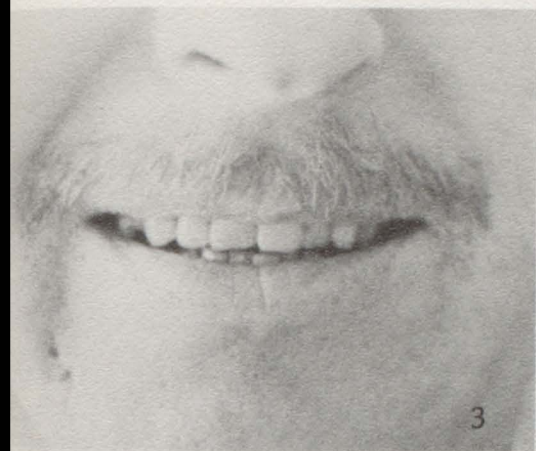

Below are some of the mustaches grown by members of the faculty. Can you identify the owner of these mustaches?

Spirit Staff Plans Yearbook

Photographer Steve Kremer finds himself on the other end of the camera.

Tom Easton, Tom Tanton and Sue Lucey discuss what they would like to be presented in this year's sports section.

To the entire Spirit of '73 staff I would like to extend my sincere thanks for the work and effort they put into producing a memorable book for the students of Northern. Although it was a difficult task, many hours of pleasure were experienced in the making of this yearbook.

On behalf of the staff, I would like to extend thanks to: Miss Lorolie Brown, who in her first year as adviser was a vital part in the production of the yearbook; Mrs. Daphne Rantanen, for her experienced opinion and advice; our staff photographers, as well as other photographers who helped take pictures; and Mr. Al Weatherly, Jr., of Graphic Creators, for his advice and patience.

The cooperation and assistance that was received from administrators, faculty, and students is also recognized and appreciated by the entire staff.

I hope that this book will, this year and in the future, keep alive for students the memories of the happy times spent here at Port Huron Northern High School.
